HUNTER WINS IN DEM SWEEP

City Refuses to Renew Playground Levy

65 PER CENT RULE DEFEATS 5-YEAR ISSUE

None of City's 6 Wards Gives It Required Margin, Two Deny It Majority.

VOTE'S 5,151 TO 4,464

But Balance In Recreational Fund's Enough to Finance Program For 2 Years.

Mansfield today had voted down the continuance of a levy of a tenth of a mill for playground purposes, but through a stroke of good fortune, organized recreation was not jeopardized by the defeat of the issue.

City Auditor Paul L. Kelley asserted today that there was a balance of $7,500 in the playground fund. And County Auditor Norman Wolfe revealed that the tax levy hadn't been in effect for the past two years, the charge having expired in 1934.

Neither of these things was commonly known Tuesday when Mansfield went to the polls, and at least one of those facts was somewhat of a life-saver in view of the defeat of the issue.

Enough for Two Years.

Kelley added that the balance in the fund was enough to continue the supervised playground program for another two years as the average annual operating cost was $3,500.

Mansfield defeated, by more than a thousand votes, a proposal to continue a tenth of a mill tax levy—which would have added only a dime in taxes for each thousand dollars of valuation—for the support of playgrounds.

The measure obtained a majority, 5,151 favoring the plan, and 4,464 opposing it. But a 65 per cent vote was required to renew the levy, and the favorable vote was far short of that percentage.

Fails in all Wards.

Not in any of the city six wards was the favorable vote of the required 65 per cent proportions. It came close in the second, but failed to get a majority in the Fourth and Sixth wards, and wound up with a slim majority of 14 in the Fourth ward

The levy has been in operation for the past ten years. If it had passed yesterday, it would have remained in effect for another five years, producing about $4,000 a year to finance supervision for playground activities during the summer.

Sponsors of the levy believed, they said today, that the wording of the issue on the ballot may have contributed to its defeat. Law requires that such levies be described as "a proposed increase in tax rate," although passage of the levy would not have increased taxes over what they have been in the past.

Lacks 1,098 of Majority.

Complete but unofficial returns today showed that 9,615 persons cast their ballots on the levy. For passage, 6,249 ballots would

TAMMANY BOWS TO LA GUARDIA

N. Y. Mayor Carries Ticket to Victory; Strips 'Hall' of Last of Power.

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia, first "reform" mayor to succeed himself in the history of New York City, carried his Republican-American Labor Party-Fusion ticket to an overwhelming victory today that stripped Tammany Hall of the last of the power it had wielded for almost 150 years.

The utter rout of Tammany extended to the important district attorneyship of New York county (Manhattan)—controlled by the Tammany machine without interruption for 20 years—which was won by the youthful "rackets buster," Thomas E. Dewey.

Official and complete returns from the city's 3,910 election districts showed La Guardia won by a plurality of 454,425 votes over Jeremiah T. Mahoney, his Tammany-New Deal Democratic opponent.

The vote:
La Guardia, 1,344,016.
Mahoney, 889,591.

Dewey, against whom the full force of the Tammany machine had been directed, defeatd Harold W. Hastings, the Tammany candidate, by an unofficial plur-

TAMMANY HALL CLOSES EARLY

Politicians Desert Headquarters as Sweep Spells Defeat.

NEW YORK— (AP) —For the first time in the memory of its oldest sachem, stately Tammany Hall was practically deserted on election night.

As the returns came in indicating that Tammany not only had lost the mayoralty and the office of district attorney, but even the Manhattan borough presidency in a clean sweep, Leader Christopher D. Sullivan and most of the executive committee left early.

By 10 o'clock only two politicians, two newspapermen and the caretaker were left. The politicians left at 10:30, and the caretaker then ousted the newspapermen and turned off the lights.

Mayor-Elect Average Man, But Still He's Different

Doesn't Think Running City Is One-Man Job—Says He's Merely Co-ordinator of All City Departments.

By JANE WILLIAMS

Claude M. Hunter, who is receiving congratulations today on his election as mayor of Mansfield, is an average man who works in a factory, owns a modest comfortable home, teaches a Sunday school class, smokes big, black cigars, has a radio and car, and enjoys a good movie. BUT he's different—distinctly, definitely and remarkably different.

I expected him to say, in fact asked him to say because it's the thing that ALL newly elected mayors say: "Now that the people have shown their confidence in me by electing me mayor, I'm going to BE mayor—no one will dictate to me, no group or clique will run the city!"

Says No Man Knows It All.

On the contrary, he said, reflectively, as he puffed at a rather nice-smelling cigar: "I'm not going to try to run this city myself. It isn't a one-man job. No one man knows all of the phases of city government better than any group of men can know it. I want men around me who know one thing very well, so that I can rely on their judgment. The mayor's position, as I see it, was never intended to be a dictatorial one; it is merely a head under which all departments of city administration are correlated and therefore a man's administration depends largely upon the judgment and good sense of the men who surround him."

Again he is different from what one expects. Born and raised in the country, he never had any particular political ambitions in his earlier years. He didn't dream of being head of a city. As a matter of fact, his first big "dream" was to earn more than $18 a month!

Because that was his first salary as a young school teacher near Rome (12 miles north of

BURTON WINNER

Cleveland Mayor Victor Over McWilliams, Dem Opponent.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Mayor Harold H. Burton, Republican, yesterday was re-elected by a large majority.

He was given a big lead over County Engineer John O. McWilliams, Democrat, although the majority was not so large as was expected. Burton's margin in the primary was 31,000, and in the 1935 eletcion it was 39,000.

The colored wards, where switching from Burton to McWilliams has been predicted for several weeks, contributed to the cut in Burton's majority by giving to McWilliams the largest vote a Democrat has received, with the exception of President Roosevelt last fall.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va.—(AP)—The disappearance of Dr. James I. Seder resulted today in a police search for the 79-year-old former superintendent of the West Virginia Anti-Saloon league.

Seder, one-time missionary to Japan, had not been seen at his apartment house since Monday.

This Is The Naked TRUTH— About Election, Election Party

To tell the truth about it—The News-Journal election party last night didn't about to much. After all, why shouldn't we tell the truth about it?

The party was just like the campaign, and just like the vote yesterday. Not many people seemed to be interested.

Not that The News-Journal election machinery wasn't running in high gear, and furnishing returns by the fastest possible method. It was functioning as it always functions. The silver screen, now famous as an election adjunct, gave the returns as fast as they came in—and they came in pretty fast.

But—and this is the truth—there weren't many people at the party. But it's a matter of record that there weren't many people at election rallies (as if there were many election rallies) and it's also a matter of record that not many people took the trouble to vote. So why should there be many people at an election party?

Well, the party went along nicely—and the trend was obvious—until 9:30 p. m., when a bulletin was flashed on the aforementioned silver screen to the effect that Glenn L. Bierly had conceded the election of his Democratic opponent, Claude M. Hunter. That was a signal that the party was about over, except for tabulating the final count.

And for the benefit of you folks who went home then—we DID tabulate the final count, and it was flashed on the screen. There were a few of the faithful who stood by until the goodnight sign went up—after returns from all 50 precincts had been compiled.

SUBMIT CIVIL SERVICE PLAN

Labor Groups Draft Ordinance Extending System, Call For Early Council Action.

City council had before it today an ordinance calling for the extension of civil service among city employes. The measure was submitted by the Mansfield Trades council and the Richland County Industrial council, with instructions from Council President Claude M. Hunter to give it their "immediate attention."

The ordinance was handed to a special committee of five members headed by Fred Miller.

"This is a very important piece of legislation," Hunter told representatives of the union groups. "I will refer this ordinance to the special committee and the city solicitor for their consideration and I ask for action at once."

"That is the best we can do at this time," he said. "However, I hope that by the next meeting you can have an answer from this committee."

Rex Reese, representing the American Federation of Labor group pleaded for "quick consideration."

"We are backing the ordinance 100 per cent," Charles Zuber, chairman of the civil service committee of the Richland County Industrial council, the recently formed CIO unit, told council.

Presentation of the ordinance by the unions followed Hunter's announcement at the Oct. 6, meeting that they had the privilege of preparing and presenting their own ordinance.

HARLAN, Ky. —(U.P.)— Sheriff Theodore R. Middleton, a central figure in Harlan county's bitter political and labor wars for the past four years, today left a jail cell and prepared to begin a count on the ballots that will determine his successor.

Middleton, arrested yesterday along with five deputies and 35 precinct officers for election day disorders, was freed on $100 bond.

3 CITIES ROUT CIO IN TEST OF BALLOT POWER

Labor's Candidates Beaten at Detroit In Labor's Bid to Control Offices.

CLAIMS PARTIAL VICTORY

Loses In Akron, Canton But Holds Pittsburgh Election Ended In Its Favor.

The Committee for Industrial Organization, in its first concerted effort to win control of major city government, lost in three elections yesterday. The best it could do was claim partial credit for one victory.

In Detroit where the CIO had avowed itself to "seize the reigns of government," the labor-backed candidate for mayor, Patrick H. O'Brien, trailed Richard W. Reading, backed by the A. F. of L.

At Akron, Municipal Judge G. L. Patterson, CIO-supported candidate, lost to Mayor Lee D. Schroy, Republican incumbent. Outcome of the race, one of the "hottest" mayoralty battles in the state, was not apparent until more than half of Akron's voting precincts had been tabulated.

Wins at Canton.

Mayor James Seccombe of Canton led the entire Republican ticket to victory in his defeat of [illegible] backed by the CIO, the A. F. of L. and labor's Non-partisan league.

The CIO claimed a partial victory with the election of Mayor Cornelius D. Scully, Democrat, at Pittsburgh. Scully defeated Robert N. Waddell, Republican.

In the Detroit election the CIO candidate trailed the victorious Reading by 105,000 votes while its leading candidate for the city council fell nearly 23,000 short of election.

Returns from 914 of the 918 precincts in the non-partisan election gave Reading 259,039 votes to 153,726 for O'Brien.

Six incumbent councilmen who sought re-election led the nine who were victorious. They, like

CINCINNATI —(AP)— Counsel for Anna Marie Hahn promised through testimony of an "eminent expert" today a new attack on a state charge that she slew 78-year old Jacob Wagner.

The witness, Hoodin said, would dispute testimony of state chemists concerning poison assertedly found in visceras of Wagner and three other old men whose deaths entered the trial.

CHICAGO—(AP)—Alexander and Nancy Economos, 14 and 15 years old respectively, were shot and killed and Mary, 17, their sister, was critically wounded today, police said, by a brother who went berserk with a pistol in the family home.

Policeman Walter Tracy said Samuel Economos, 24, who fired the shots, told him he intended to kill two other brothers in order to make it "the biggest funeral even held here."

James Economos, 29, told police he and his brother, George, 28, were awakened by shots and when they ran to the dining room they found Samuel standing over the bodies of his victims. They disarmed him.

NAMED MAYOR AS PARTY CAPTURES ALL MAJOR POSTS

Beats Bierly By 1,842 Votes, Takes 34 of 50 Precincts; Troll, Ward and Davidson Win; Democrats Retain Council Control.

By JOSEPH E. KUEBLER

Claude M. Hunter, an ex-school teacher and incumbent president of city council, will be Mansfield's next mayor.

Successful in four straight elections after being beaten in his first two attempts to win public office, Hunter led the Democratic party to an almost overwhelming victory in yesterday's election. He defeated his Republican opponent, Glenn L. Bierly, by 1,842 votes. The complete unofficial count was: Hunter, 6,187; Bierly, 4,345.

The city's new chief executive carried 34 of the 50 precincts to win.

The outcome of Tuesday's election will completely change the picture at the city building. Every important city office with the exception of the municipal judge will be in the hands of Democrats after the first of the year.

During the past two years, the only Democrats in major posts were Council President Hunter and Auditor Paul L. Kelley, serving a four-year term.

On the basis of the mayoralty vote, 10,532 Mansfielders visited the polls yesterday, substantiating the accuracy of The News-Journal check made of the polling places Tuesday morning. The survey, made eight hours before the polls closed, indicated a vote of 10,000, slightly more than half of the city's total eligible voters.

Riding on the crest of the Democratic wave were Hunter's running mates, Karl P. Troll, elected president of council; Glenn A. Davidson, elected city treasurer, and Atty. M. D. Ward, jr., elected city solicitor.

The overall Democratic majority of 5 to 2 in city council remained unchanged as two of the party's councilmen-at-large candidates and three ward council nominees emerged victorious.

Democrats named to council were George L. Berg and Harry M. Emmons, councilmen-at-large; Lester D. Hunter, Fourth ward; Fred Miller, Fifth ward, and Arthur L. Croak, Sixth ward. Berg, Hunter and Miller were re-elected.

The only offices salvaged by the Republicans in the face of a Democratic vote of almost landslide proportions were James E. Crum, councilman-at-large; Russell D. Porch, First ward; Charles N. Shultz, Second ward, and George C. Kyle, Third ward, all re-elected. Shultz was unopposed in both the primary and in yesterday's election.

Leads From Start.

At no time during the night did Hunter trail in the tabulation of the mayoralty vote. He started out with a commanding lead when the first precinct reported, and his majority increased as the evening grew older.

The first reports on the trend of the day's voting came from precinct E in the Fifth ward, a traditional Democratic stronghold. Hunter took this district by a vote of 204 to 52.

The Democratic standard bearer won every precinct in the Fourth, Fifth and Sixth wards, a marked contrast to two years ago when his party's nominee, James F. Carrigan, lost every precinct in the city except one to the Republican incumbent, Earl A. McFarland, who did not seek a second term.

Bierly won 15 of the 50 precincts in yesterday's voting, and tied with Hunter in precinct K of the First ward where both candidates received [illegible] more than half of the [illegible] in, he conceded Hunter's election at 9:30 p. m. as he scanned the returns at the Republican headquarters with party leaders.

He issued a sattement in which he said: "I am grateful for the support of my friends. The approach to the political question is the same regardless of the outcome, and as a Republican, I believe that we need to do those things which will re-establish the

Hunter Asks Support Of 'All Citizens'

Calling for the support and co-operation of all the citizens of Mansfield, Mayor-elect Claude M. Hunter, victorious in Tuesday's election, issued the following statement today:

"I am deeply grateful for the wholehearted support of the citizens of Mansfield, regardless of party, in handing to me the reins of government of this great city of north central Ohio.

"It is a trust that will be taken seriously, with much thuoght and meditation on my part. I propose to be the mayor for all the people of Mansfield regardless of race, creed or political affiliation.

"I will give my undivided attention to the management of the city's affairs but no man canserve in this capacity alone and be successful. Therefore I am asking the co-operation and wholehearted support of all the citizens of Mansfield."

Republicans Keep Four Seats In Next City Council

Despite the fact that Democrats carried all major city offices in Tuesday's election, Republicans managed to hold their own in council elections, and when the new city council meets next January it will be composed of five Democrats and four Republicans—exactly the same balance of power that has existed during the past two years.

Five incumbent councilmen were re-elected to ward posts, one ward councilman won election at large and one councilman at large was re-elected.

There will be only two new members of council after the first of the year. They are Harry M. Emmons, a member at large, and Arthur L. Croak, from the Sixth ward. Both are Democrats.

Croak is the only new ward councilman. Five others were re-elected. Croak replaces George L. Berg, who was elected councilman-at-large.

Also re-elected at large were

Hattery, Arlin, Fankhauser Win Easily for School Board

Sweeping all but one precinct and, of course, all of the city's six wards as well as that part of Madison township that is in the city school district, three present members of the city board of education were returned to office in Tuesday's election by an overwhelming majority.

The victorious trio comprised the slate of the Mansfield Schools committee—Dr. John S. Hattery, Harold W. Arlin and Alvin Fankhauser.

They defeated Paul R. Spencer and Thomas Williams, who ran as labor candidates.

Hattery led the victorious slate. He polled a total of 7,108 votes, while Arlin, runner-up, had 6,756.

In third place, Fankhauser got 6,451.

All three of the winners beat their two opponents by about a 2 to 1 margin. Spencer's total was 3,383 and Williams polled 2,768.

The Hattery-Arlin-Fankhauser slate was first voted into office in 1933, when the Schools committee

DUSTMAN, KING WINNERS BY SAFE MARGINS

Mayor's Chair at Crawford County Seat Lost By Dems First Time In 16 Years.

BUCYRUS — Two Republican mayors were swept into office in usually Democratic Bucyrus and Galion on the basis of complete but unofficial returns today on yesterday's elections.

Bucyrus, recording the heaviest voting in years, elected George Dustman, former state examiner and a Republican, as its mayor by a margin of 556 votes. He defeated R. L. Hertzler, city service director, and a Democrat.

It was the first time in 16 years that a Republican mayor was elected for the Crawford county seat.

Defeats Veteran Dem.

At Galion, incumbent Mayor W. M. King, a Republican, was elected to a third term, defeating by 522 votes H. H. Hartmann, Democrat, who served as mayor for nine previous terms. A third mayoralty candidate, Jack Graham, an Independent, polled 167 votes, and a fourth, Oscar Williams, also an Independent, polled 67 votes.

In the Bucyrus election, however, Democrats won five council seats against two for the Republicans.

Galion's council will consist of five Democrats and two Republicans.

In the only other Crawford county municipal election, L. F. Waldbauer, former Democratic mayor, was elected. Edward C. King, his Republican opponent, withdrew from the race soon after the primary.

Young Elected Shelby Mayor for 3rd Term

Up and Down THE STREET

Claude Hunter did not carry off all the honors in his family last night. While the votes were being counted that made him Mansfield's next mayor, Mrs. Hunter attended her regular Sunday school class meeting, and was elected president of the Rain Or Shine class of South Main Street Evangelical church. And so while he is a mayor-elect, she is a president-elect.

They're still doing some pretty good work on Mansfield golf courses, although the season officially closed more than a month ago. The snappy weather has not interfered with their scoring, either. For instance, C. C. Porter of Glendale boulevard shot an "eagle" on the difficult par 4, No. 9 hole at Coolridge the other afternoon. Porter sank his second shot with a 150-yard mashie effort. R. A. Dysert of Byhalia, O., was a witness to the feat.

Although it was generally agreed that Mansfield's municipal campaign was the quietest in years, hundreds of telephone calls were received at The News-Journal offices until daybreak today asking about the outcome of various contests in yesterday's election.

ZEIGLER WINS AT BELLVILLE

'Boy-Mayor,' Blind Attorney Lose Out In Village's Mayoralty Contest.

In a contest at Bellville which attracted county-wide interest, Edgar R. Stahl, the village's 28-year-old mayor, was defeated in Tuesday's election by Thomas R. Zeigler, who had a majority of 23 votes.

Vance C. Stuller, blind attorney, the other entry in the three-way contest, polled 68 votes to trail Zeigler by 170 votes.

Zeigler, former road contractor, had 238 votes to 215 for Stahl, the "boy mayor" who received statewide publicity four years ago when he was elected for the first time.

A five-way contest for village marshal gave Fred Gregg a lead of 160 to 140 over John F. Warner, second in the race. Guy D. Walker was third with 76 votes, J. W. Walker fourth with 63 and Donald Castetter fifth with 61.

Francis M. Hess was elected treasurer over Orval D. Keirns and F. G. Jackson had a commanding majority over Charles Showecker for clerk.

With 11 in the running for the six council posts, the high men were Frank Livingston, Vance Garber, Carl Garber, Martin Finkey, Maurice Horn and Russell Walker.

For the board of public affairs, with three to elect, W. L. Lockheart, Guy Starrett and Isaac Gatton polled the largest votes. There were five in the contest.

With 11 in the race for five board of education posts the winners for the two-year term were W. L. Garber and Fred W. Dill. The three elected to serve four-year terms were Blake Garber, Carl McFerren and Paul F. Yarger.

HAS NAME TATTOOED ON LEGS IN FORTY DIFFERENT LANGUAGES

PORTLAND—(INS)—A 36-year-old salesman, T. D. Rockwell, can be stricken by amnesia almost any place within a few minutes. He has had his name tattoed on his legs in forty different languages.

Fear of amnesia haunted Rockwell most of his life, he said, until his own "sure fire" antidote occurred to him in 1934. He immediately visited Sailor Walter Larson, a Portland tattoo artist, and had his name tattooed on his leg in several languages.

During the past three years Rockwell has continued the strange practice, until now he could be stricken with amnesia and still be identified whether he was found in the mountains of Scotland or in the shadows of the Pyramids.

"Oh course," Rockwell said, "it wasn't entirely fear of amnesia and being found dead somewhere without being identified that caused me to do it. "Having my name tattooed on me in all those foreign languages will make it easier for me to cash checks or money orders in any country.

He said he intended to have his name tattooed in 100 languages before being satisfied.

The tattooed transcription which Rockwell figures he is least apt to use is in "Angel's Code"—an ancient Egyptian language cribbed from a Pharoah's tomb. It resembles Sanskrit.

The Great Game of Politics

—By FRANK R. KENT

The Ax Is the Answer.

IF MR. ROOSEVELT, as his friends aver and the character of his recent conferences attest, proposes to translate talk into action in the serious matter of budget balancing, he ought to be given support by Republicans as well as anti-New Deal Democrats.

For either of these elements to withhold aid will convict them not only of inconsistency but of insincerity. There is no excuse to fall behind if the president does his part, because this business of recovering control of the federal finances is far too vital for partisanship or politics. Even with the help of consistently antagonistic elements the job is gigantic and the opposition strong. The danger is that Mr. Roosevelt, bound to find the task distasteful, may not have the stomach for sustained effort and after a certain amount of struggle incline toward those who tell him budget balancing can again be postponed safely and inflation is not actually to be feared.

AMONG THE president's intimates, in and out of congress, have always been a number who, convinced in their own minds of the absurdity of orthodox fiancial methods and certain in their cocksure way that unlimited money always can be obtained by heavier taxes on the rich, have urged upon him the futility of economy and the silliness of bothering about deficits. It is an unfortunate fact that some of these New Deal economists have been put in high official positions where they have been able to influence fiscal policy. At the moment there is division among them. Some are frankly alarmed at the condition of the treasury; others still hold that retrenchment is unnecessary and want to continue indefinitely financing deficits out of Social Security funds, now pouring into the treasury at the rate of a billion a year.

IT IS ESTIMATED that $650,000,000 of these funds will have been used for current expenses by the end of this year. The point that this is not only a misappropriation of trust funds but a course bound in the end to bring disaster, is dismissed as without merit. Apparently the idea is to continue using old-age pension money to run the government, substituting for the cash government promises to pay. Apparently, to the financial wizards of the administration there is nothing wrong in this and nothing risky. On the contrary, those who urge it consider the whole idea very smart, indeed. It is typical New Deal finance and it is at least encouraging that the president seem to have rejected this notion, so attractive in its simplicity and so poisonous in effect, for the only sound way—to wit, keeping expenditures within revenues.

BUT THE CLOSER the president gets to grips with the problem, the greater the difficulties piled up by five years of unlimited spending, are revealed. Despite the enormously increased revenues of this year, expenditures have outpaced them. More money is being spent in all departments than last year and it is ridiculous for Mr. Roosevelt to blame this on congress. Early last session, when congress was in the mood to economize in a big way, it was the president who prevented it. It was the president who blanketed Senator Byrd of Virginia, in his efforts to save through abolition of useless governmental agencies, and it was the president who killed Senator Byrne's proposed 10 per cent slice in all appropriations, and it was the president who, under pressure from the mayors, insisted on a billion-and-a-half instead of a billion for relief.

NOR CAN congress be blamed because we are spending this year $925,000,000 for "national defense," instead of last year's $850,000,000—which itself was the peacetime peak. Last week at Hyde Park, when financial officers of the administration gathered to go over the situation, the unpleasant news was considered that the treasury figures as to revenue are wrong again and the deficit for this year, at first forecast at $400,000,000 and in October put by the president at $695,000,000, in reality will be over a billion. It all comes down to this—clearly, the budget cannot be balanced merely by increasing taxes or through improved business because, unless taxes are revised and control achieved through economy, there will be very little business left to tax.

THE industrial slump of this year means lowered revenues next and if expenditures remain relatively unchanged that means a heavier deficit. That means very real danger, as no wrealized by the president, and, it is fair to say, asserted last spring by one of his financial advisers, Mr. Eccles. In those days Mr. Eccles thought improved business would solve the government's financial problems. The present situation must have convinced him of his mistake. Clearly the only answer is the ax. And it is the ax Mr. Roosevelt hates to wield, because it means cutting down so many of the lovely but useless ideas he has watched bloom and wastefully watered with the taxpayers' millions—the Rural Rehabilitation administration, for example.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—One of the best pictures of this year was "Make Way for Tomorrow," a serious and artistic study of conflict between age and youth. It was, sadly, a box-office failure, through no fault of the man who made it.

Now Leo McCarey has made another, equally artistic, but a comedy—and it should more than atone for losses theaters may have suffered on his serious effort. "The Awful Truth" looks sure to be one of the big cash winners of the year.

It has names (which "Make Way for Tomorrow" lacked) in Irene Dunne and Cary Grant, and it has writing, dialogue, and direction to serve as models. The story concerns a young couple who get a divorce, more through pique than anger, and their subsequent efforts to scotch the romances each turns to for consolation. In love with each other all the time, they battle subtly, broadly, fairly and unfairly through reel after delightful reel, evoking comedy situations right and left, and yet maintaining a human quality which has become rare in this era of modernized slapstick.

Miss Dunne's performance is her best, and Cary Grant, the favorite young character actor, sets a new pace for himself. Ralph Bellamy as the wealthy Oklahoman, Irene's suitor, is the supporting stand-out, with Alexander D'Arcy, Cecil Cunningham, Joyce Compton, Molly Lamont and Esther Dale maintaining the generally superior standard of the whole production.

Previewishly speaking, this has been laugh week in Hollywood. Comedy has held the screen alone. Another sure hit is "Stand-In," the story of the banker who came to Hollywood to straighten out a movie studio.

Adapted liberally from the Clarence Buddington Kelland story, "Stand-In's" comedy springs generously from the famed foibles of Hollywood in juxtaposition to the serious, mathematical point of view of the New York banker.

Atterbury Dodd (Leslie Howard) comes to Hollywood convinced that mathematics can solve any problem and in the course of foiling a plot to grab control of the studio he learns about such human, unmathematical things as love.

Joan Blondell is the stand-in who helps with his education; With "The Perfect Specimen" fresh on her list, the girl is going to find herself up there among box-office favorites after this one. Howard forgets about Romeo and Hamlet for a perfect comedy characterization and Humphrey Bogart is forceful as the producer Quintain. Alan Mowbray's caricature of a foreign director is one of the highlights. Tay Garnett directed.

"Breakfast for Two" is funny, but not so funny as it might have been with other stars. Barbara Stanwyck and Herbert Marshall seemed miscast in this yarn about a rich western girl who tries to save an old shipping business for the ne'er-do-well son who has let it go to the sea-dogs.

Simple White Evening Dress Is Season's Smartest

Have you ever noticed that the best dressed women in the world dress the simplest? It is true. The materials usually are very fine, the accessories are beautifully chosen, and the lines are just right. They are simple, but beautifully cut, the garments exquisitely made, and worn with distinction

Claudette Colbert, brown-eyed screen star, is considered one of the best dressed women of the film colony, and her dresses are seldom elaborate The one pictured is a sample—a lovely dress and designed for the new social season by Travis Banton.

The skirt is a generous affair cut circular and there is a narrow girdle of braided crepe around the waistline. The dress is made of white crepe.

Miss Colbert wears a clip of diamonds and rubies which has a companion-piece bracelet, with this lovely white dress.

"The Authority on Authorities"

LOOK AHEAD WARILY

IF YOU HAVE opened the bidding with a hand which is rather sickly in honor cards, it pays to give it delicate treatment later on Particularly is it wise to be careful about making later bids which may cause the side to land in a no trump contract It is better sometimes to select as an opening bid the one which probably will make it easier for you to act after your partner's probable response

(Dealer North Neither side vulnerable.)

This deal came up in a Team-of-Four match and the bidding was quite different at the two tables In both instances the bidding passed around to South in the third position, where it was opened with a bid of 1-Spade. North's response was 2-Hearts and when South bid 3-Clubs, North went to 3-No Trump, feeling he had stoppers in the other two suits and fillers for both of his partner's suits This contract was defeated two tricks.

At the other table South was more cautious. After his partner's Heart bid, over his own 1-Spade, he rebid his spade suit rather than show another suit, which might give too much encouragement to his partner. Over the 2-Spades North called 2-No Trump, and when South now bid 3-Clubs North passed. The result was that they got a plus on the board rather than a minus. North figured that with the spade rebid South's hand might not have been very strong and he might as well discontinue the bidding.

Members Hear of Law Enforcement In Mansfield at Meeting Held at Home of Mrs. Frank Hughes, Tuesday Afternoon.

MEADE K. BATES, chief of police, spoke on "Law Enforcement" at the meeting of the Tourist club yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Frank Hughes, 55 Helen avenue.

Principally the police chief emphasized the lack of night police service in the city. At present there are only three men on duty, he informed his audience, and that is hardly sufficient for a city the size of this.

Mrs. S. D. Hoover, 65 Vennum avenue, gave a paper on "Problems of the Migrant" She discussed the migrating and wandering families that follow seasons or work. These people are considered a detriment by all the communities in which they settle temporarily because they present a difficult problem for the city or town to meet and solve. One of the primary troubles involved in the migrant families, is the education of the children. Children of school age in these families receive inadequate education according to Mrs. Hoover.

Girl Feels Her Nerves Give Way

By VIRGINIA LEE

Lottie is in a bad way. In the first place, she says I do not answer her letters. I'm sorry, but I do not seem to have received any before.

She is very much in love with a young man her own age—23. They have been going together for a year, but he goes out occasionally with other girls, which makes her feel very badly. He always tells her when he has been out with another girl, however.

It seems it is his boy friend that leads him astray, and Lottie fears her nerves will give way if she doesn't find a way out of the affair soon—break the boy friend of going out with this boy and with other girls.

"What shall I do? Shall I keep on fighting until every nerve in my body is torn, or shall I quit?" is her frantic query.

I'd advise just "unlaxing," Lottie. If you could do one bit of good by getting into such a nervous state, I might say to go ahead and collapse. But you won't. You are much more likely to lose your boy friend by having a nervous breakdown than you are by sitting tight, and not getting so excited about things.

If you can point out, in a calm and friendly way, just what you fear for your young friend, and what this boy friend of his may be getting him into, all well and good. Free your mind, but don't be too emotional about it. The boy probably feels that he is as grown up as you and quite as able to manage his own affairs.

I presume he would appreciate you being sweet and jolly and appreciative when you are with him —not a nervous wreck. Don't run his pal down to him, either—not if you want to keep him, your boy friend. He won't believe there is anything the matter with him, anyway, and it will make discord between you and give this friend a chance to widen the breach between you, if there is one.

And the fact that your boy friend always tells you when he has been out with this pal and a girl, means that he doesn't consider it anything serious. You are not engaged, are you? The best thing you can do is to go out occasionally with other boys and tell him about it. He probably needs a little competition to keep him in line.

There now, don't say again I don't answer your letters.

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, Nov. 4.

By mutual as well as lunar aspects, this day will be memorable for very important events, possibly following the stagnation, crystallization, frustration and disappointment of current events This rather drastict activity will tend to place the fortunes on a stable basis. It will involve hard work, wise judgment and probably radical change, all justifiable.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of very important events, with old conditions and stagnations wiped away to make way for stable and dependable tunes and sound achievements. But move cautiously, work industriously, confer with elders and beware of litigation.

A child born on this day may be deep, studious, dependable and industrious, but beset by urges for change, adventure and many hazardous experiences that may enlarge its prestige and probably bring it into the public eye.

Clever Jumper Frock Is Practical for Little Girls.

By MARIAN MARTIN

Tots — and their mothers — think it just as important to have as pretty frocks for school and play as they do for "dress-up"—and here's a jaunty jumper-style that's sure to please! Choose a warm jersey, or wool-like cotton for the jumper of Pattern 9507, and vary it by several versions of the simple blouse. Big or little girls will adore the jumper, with its gracefully flaring skirt, becoming squared neckline, and distinctive button-back closing which, incidentally, makes a good sleeveless sun frock; while the blouse will prove itself a miracle of youthful flattery with its saucy Peter Pan collar, and choice of sleeves. This pattern is ever so easy to cut 'n' stitch, aided by its Complete Diagrammed Marian Martin Sew Chart.

Pattern 9507 may be ordered only in children's sizes 4, 6, 8, 10 and 12. Size 6, jumper, requires 1 yard 54 inch fabric; blouse, ¾ yard 36 inch fabric.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

SANCTUARY!" MY mother-in-law repeated, and I knew that, in the old phrase, she was "pricking up her ears."

"What do you mean by that?" she went on. My pulses leaped in triumph, for I had purposely used the word in describing Queen Olga's reception of my invitation to the farm, expressly hoping that Dicky's mother would scent something in the situation which would appeal to the strain of the melodramatic which is so strong an element in her make-up.

"It was Queen Olga who called it that," I said with deliberate slowness. "I was surprised, myself, at the term, and yet,—I don't know — under the circumstances—"

"Under what circumstances?" my mother-in-law demanded irascibly. "Why are you beating about the bush? Are they in any danger?"

Always Danger.

"I don't know," I answered, honestly enough. "There's always danger, isn't there, for exiled royalty who have escaped revolutionary plots?"

"Of course, of course," she assented impatiently, "but do you think they are fearing any particular person or group?"

"The queen did not say so," I said, also truthfully, "although something in her manner, and in her use of the word 'sanctuary' might very well be explained by such a terror. But she is obsessed by a very lively fear of having to choose between starvation and Philip Veritzen's bounty."

Mother Graham looked up quickly.

"Weren't they able to bring any coin or jewels with them?" she asked.

I debated for the fraction of a second whether to tell her of the missing emeralds, and then decided against it until I should receive permission of my father to discuss it.

Thrilled by Plan.

"Very little, I am afraid," I said. "Indeed, Queen Olga told me that virtually everything she had now was in a bank here, and that the sum would be just about enough to compensate Philip Veritzen for what he had expended on her. She asked my advice and Lillian's upon getting work, but she isn't strong enough to face the world yet. She was so grateful for my offer that she insisted upon teaching French to Junior and Roderick, and having Olina instruct them in music."

"My word!" Dicky's mother said, her eyes sparkling. "But that will be something to write to Harriet — her nephews being taught French and music by a real queen and a princess!"

I breathed an inaudible sigh of relief. Her pleasurable excitement had carried her past the danger point of possible disapprobation. From now on she would be clay in the hands of the potter —if I watched my hands and acted wisely.

"What's the reason she feels her indebtedness to Philip Veritzen so keenly?" she demanded. "I never knew that royalty objected to having wealthy subjects, or admirers of other nations, befriend them. Rather I would have said that they took everything that came as a sort of divine right."

Tells of Romance.

"But, you see," I explained hesitantly, "although Philip Veritzen doesn't know it yet, Queen Olga has recognized him as the young officer, cousin of her husband, who, before her marriage, was madly in love with her."

"Oh, Margaret! You don't mean it!"

All the romantic drama in my mother-in-law's nature—and she possesses plenty of it—leaped to her eyes and caroled in her voice.

"Do you think anything will come of it?" she asked next. "I imagine he's always been more or less in love with her memory, but —do you think he's in love with her now, or she with him?"

"I don't know," I said slowly. "I think he received a distinct shock of disillusionment when he first saw her after she was rescued—she looked like a dirty old peasant. But whether he will come back to his allegiance when she gets out of the hospital and into some fitting clothes again, I do not know."

"It will be as good as a play to watch," she said excitedly. "I'm awfully glad you had the sense to invite them down here."

THEATER

W. C. FIELDS ad libs so much on the picture lots that other players with him are hard put to catch their cues. No one knows whether the comedian makes the lines up on the spur of the moment or whether he mischievously plans them ahead of time to spring on the cast. In his new picture he is on board ship and Martha Raye has been thrown overboard by the sailors who believed her a jinx. Her voice comes out of the fog, and instead of saying the lines he was supposed to say, Fields cried: "My daughter! My little Jonah! Eight years ago I hit her on the head with a rubber hammer . . . half in earnest, half in jest—and she took it the wrong way!" The scene was ruined when everyone, including the director, roared, because the comedian is being sued by his former secretary who charges that in a fracas at his home recently she was hit over the head with a rubber hammer. Not even law suits can dampen Fields' Puckish humor.

Wanger's Vogues.

One of the most pretentious musical shows of the season, "Walter Wanger's Vogues of 1938" will be the offering at the Ohio for three days, starting Thursday. This is the picture for which 11 beauty models of New York City were brought to Hollywood to appear in the fashion sequences. Warner Baxter and Joan Bennett are starred, with Mischa Auer and Helen Vinson featured. It concerns the fight between two rival houses of fashion, one headed by Baxter and the other by Auer. The fashion shows will be eye-openers for women in the audiences. Musical numbers of the extravagant variety, thus combining the last word in beauty, fashions, setting, music and dancing.

Dance Man Cagney.

James Cagney, whose screen romancing packs a wallop, goes in for song and dance in his new picture, "Something To Sing About", which the Madison offers the last half of the week, starting tomorrow. The player with a punch turns to sumptuous and ultra-modernistic settings, with Victor Schertzinger music as a background. Not that Jimmy turns "sweet", because he still plays the type of roles that have made him popular—dynamic and dominating. He is a hoofer in a night club who strikes the fancy of a Hollywood producer and is given a big contract on the eve of his marriage to a singer who had worked at the club with him. Evelyn Daw, a newcomer with a voice, plays opposite him.

Mystery and Romance.

A mystery radio drama and a fast moving romance of the salmon fishing country in the northwest make up the double bill at the Majestic which runs through today and tomorrow. June Travis and Ronald Regan are cast in the "Love Is On The Air", the story of a "Children's Hour" radio man who solves a murder mystery. The other picture, "The Lady Fights Back" has Kent Taylor and Irene Hervey in the film version of Arthur Stringer's story. "Heather of the Highlands", in which a beautiful girl stages a battle of wits with an engineer, and both of them win.

From Out The Sky.

Slapstick of the most riotous type has a place in "Easy Living", which heads the Ritz bill through Thursday. It is in the restaurant scene when handsome Ray Milland wrecks the entire automat, including the kitchen, all to provide a free lunch for a girl in a $50,000 sable coat. The coat, she assures him, fell out of the sky into her lap when she was on her way to her job as a clerical worker. Strangely enough the story is true, and thereby hangs a most interesting and enjoyable story for movie goers. Edward Arnold, Jean Arthur and Milland head the cast. The other feature is Kay Francis, Ian Hunter and Errol Flynn in "Another Dawn".

My Neighbor Says:

Wind takes the moisture out out of evergreen trees planted in outside window boxes and as there is no chance of their obtaining moisture after the earth in boxes is frozen, it is wise to protect trees by putting evergreen boughs in between them.

Take one can condensed tomato soup, one can water and one cup of left-over meats ground or chopped fine. Small onion chopped fine. Season with salt, pepper and butter Cook 15 or 20 minutes and turn over buttered toast. Serve hot. This is an excellent way to use up the left-over bits of meat.

WHOOPS! CO-ED ON TEAM

A co-ed football player? Gosh Aunt Lucy, not that! But yes, says Coach Gus Welch of American university, Washington, D. C., who says, "Why not?" Welch has a girl student who can kick goals by place kick like nobody's business. Clad in full football regalia, she practices grimly each day awaiting her chance to get in there and play for dear old American on a Saturday afternoon. Says Welch "Women fundamentally are more graceful kickers. They have the follow through that brings accuracy." Betty Co-Ed is pictured practicing, but her identity remains a secret.

Rams to Be at Full Strength for Loudonville

Last of Madison Cripples Returns to Squad For Friday's Game.

MADISON high school's hospital section was empty today as the Rams continued preparations for their annual Mid-State league tussle with Loudonville in the neighboring city Friday afternoon.

Friday will mark the first time this season that the Rams will be at their full strength, and Coach Al Fendrick expects his charges to respond with one of their best performances.

Jack Priess, who was kept out of the Madison lineup last week by a slight injury, is the last of the cripples to report to the squad ready for action.

However, despite the return of the injured, Fendrick is undecided as to the starting lineup. It has been necessary for him to experiment so frequently with his lineup this season because of one thing or another that he is not certain just whom he will start.

The starting backfield will undoubtedly consist of Bill Brightbill, Gene Harmon, Joe Miller and Doug DeNero, however.

Word from Loudonville is that Coach John Kerekes is stressing pass defense in drills this week. Madison unloaded passes all over the lot last week as it humbled Fredericktown, 88 to 0, and Kerekes fears that it will be up to the Red Birds to stop the aerial game.

The Rams' running game has also shown improvement, and Kerekes, apparently, realizes that his Birdmen have a tough job cut out for them this week-end.

Meanwhile, the other Mid-State league teams are going through strenuous drills in preparation for their tussles. Bellville is host to Danville and Butler invades Fredericktown for this week's other games.

Bellville, one of the best drilled clubs in the circuit, should encounter little trouble with Danville. Coach Royd Hodges' men are in good shape after their easy victory over Ashland last week.

The game at Fredericktown brings together the only two teams in the league which have not won a game. The Freddies have been particularly weak this year, and all signs point to a triumph for Coach M L. Stearns' men of Butler, who sports one of the classiest passing offenses in operation in the league this year.

Butler Favored to Turn Back Fredericktown; Bellville Picked to Win.

DREAM PLAYER GALLOPS ON CHICAGO GRIDIRONS

By CHARLES DUNKLEY

CHICAGO—(AP)—The dream player of every football coach is galloping the gridirons of Chicago. He is "Wild Bill" De Correvont, a shy, 17-year-old youth, rated as the nation's most amazing prep star.

To date, in five games playing with Austin high school, De Correvont has scored 25 touchdowns, nine in one game, and six points after touchdowns, for a total of 156 points. This shatters the previous Chicago individual season scoring record of 109 points.

Sets Scoring Record.

During his four years on Austin teams he has set up an all-time scoring record that may never be equalled. He has scored one or more touchdowns in every league game he has played since his first game as a freshman. More than half the runs he has made have been for 50 yards or more.

This slim blond youth, weighing 172 pounds and five feet eleven inches tall, has played under three coaches. Each declares without reserve that he is the greatest prep star they've ever seen.

De Correvont is not only a great football star, but a baseball "nugget" as well. He plays the outfield and last spring turned in the lowest batting average of his career, a mere .366, his highest was .490. He has turned down an offer from the Brooklyn Dodgers which is reported to have included a college education.

Receives Offers.

Sales "talks" from various colleges, by phone and the mails, are pouring into De Correvont's home. Many are accompanied by attractive offers of work and financial aid.

De Correvont takes to athletics naturally. He started to play football as soon as he was able to run. His grandfather was a member of the Cincinnati Reds years ago.

HEISERS, HORVATHS KEEP NAMES ALIVE AT M. H. S.

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor

TOLEDO points with pride to the athletic achievements of the Weisberg brothers. Seven of this famous Toledo family won recognition in sports at Woodward high school.

Lorain is proud of the prestige brought to the lake city by the Pincura brothers.

There are other Ohio cities which boast of great athletic families. Mansfield is listed among these.

ONE has to dig back several years in Mansfield high school records to find a football team which did not include a Horvath or a Heiser.

Each family has produced four football stars for Tyger teams. The name of Heiser will be stricken from the list this year, but the Horvaths will continue to stud Mansfield high school lineup for several years to come. The last of the five Horvath brothers is now in grade school.

Daryl

The first Heiser to gain recognition in the grid sport was Jennings, who played under Coach Russ Murphy in the late 20's. Then came Vern, who also won quite a reputation on the mat at Mansfield high and Ohio State. Jim followed Vern. A tackle, Jim was chosen on the second all-Ohio scholastic team in his senior year. He later starred at Wichita university.

Daryl is the present and last representative of the Heiser family on the Mansfield roster. Daryl, who played a sensational game Saturday as the Tygers edged the Western Reserve freshmen, 3-0, is a senior.

The first Horvath to gain recognition at the high school was Alex, an end. Andy, now at Baldwin-Wallace, followed. Incidentally, both gained N. C. O. conference recognition.

JOHN and Mike are present members of the Horvath family on the Mansfield varsity. John, a tackle, is a senior, and Mike, an end, is a sophomore. The other Horvath will enter Mansfield high within a couple of years.

The Horvath boys hail from the county children's home.

MERCHANTS CLOSE SKED

Villella Announces Cancellation of Remaining Games Due to Injuries.

Due to the large number of injuries which has beset the club in recent weeks, the Mansfield Merchants have cancelled the remaining games on their schedule, Business Manager Johnny Villella announced today.

Among the Merchants suffering from injuries are Vern Heiser, Joe Zimmerman, Ike Fetter, Tony Schadek, Ed Zediker, "Rabbit" Siler, and Gaylord Bucher, all regulars.

Undefeated last year, the Merchants came back this season to mark up another impressive record. They registered five victories, while dropping three hard-fought battles.

The Mansfield outfit's worst defeat was administered by the powerful Akron Awnings who came through with a 13 to 6 decision. The Merchants dropped a thrilling 2-0 tilt to the Pi Rho Phi club of Detroit and last Sunday fell before the Euclid O. Kiwanis aggregation, 6 to 0.

HOT MILLS SET RECORD

The South Plant Hot Mill No. 1 team established a new season record in the Empire Steel Mill league at the Meder alleys last night when it came through with a 2733 total. The former record of 2667 was held by the South Plant Shearers.

Daum came through with a 625 to lead the Hot Mills to their record-breaking total. Forsythe, who shot a middle game of 251, was second high among the individuals with a 617. Gerberich shot a 612.

RESERVE LOSES PAIR

CLEVELAND—(UP)— Western Reserve's Pioneers hope to hop back into the win column this week at the expense of Syracuse who were jolted 6-0 while the Red Cats lost two players. Johnny Wilson end is out for the season with a chipped bone in his ankle and Mike Dragisich will be out for several weeks because of an appendicitis attack.

DEFENSIVE TILT LOOMS IN COLUMBUS SATURDAY

COLUMBUS—(AP)—The two best defensive elevens in the Western conference will be pitted against each other next Saturday when Ohio State and Indiana clash in one of the season's outstanding Big Ten battles.

Ohio, which is far below the standard offensive strength of other seasons, has come up with a rugged line that has stopped all but one opponent.

In five games thus far the Bucks have allowed only 13 points to be scored upon them and the entire lot was garnered by Southern California. The big Scarlet forward wall has kept Texas Christian, Purdue, Northwestern and Chicago from crossing the goal line.

Yardage is the scant total Indiana has allowed while running up five wins at least one of which has been met by Ohio.

In five games the Hoosiers have permitted their opponents to score only 19 points. Minnesota and Illinois made six each at the expense of Coach Bo McMillin's proteges and Nebraska scored seven. Penn and Cincinnati were blanked.

The Westinghouse Misfits led the scoring in the Westinghouse league at the Meder alleys last night with a 1138.

Boy pitching prodigy of the Cleveland Indians, Bob called his share of the fourth place money earned by the Indians a "mighty nice" present for his 19th birthday anniversary. Bob's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Feller, planned nothing elaborate today for their son's birthday celebration.

MARKET DOWN FRACTIONS IN QUIET OPENING

Traders Are Confronted With Uninspiring Steel News In Early Dealings.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Fractions to around a point were chipped from prices of stocks in a quiet opening today.

At the start of trading Wall Street circles were confronted with uninspiring news from the steel industry.

"Iron Age" said it appears that the drop in steel buying has been checked. On the other hand it added, "the chances of marked improvement have been lessened by the hand-to-mouth buying of the automobile companies, upon which much dependence has been placed for a business pickup."

At the same time it was pointed out railroad demand is at rock-bottom and building construction consumption is waning.

Renewed heaviness in some commodities has tended to put a damper on purchases of stocks, some commission house observers said.

3 CITIES REJECT CIO CANDIDATES

Labor's Candidates Beaten In Detroit, Akron, and Canton Municipal Elections.

Reading, were supported by the local branch of the A. F. of L. The three others who won did not figure in the labor fight for political supremacy in the motor capital's government.

Last on List.

The lowest of the nine had 22,881 votes more than Maurice Sugar, attorney for the United Automobile Workers of America, CIO affiliate, who stood tenth. Richard T. Frankensteen, assistant international president of the union, was eleventh.

Akron's nip and tuck mayoral battle ended with county Democratic Chairman J. Earl Cox conceding the election of Mayor Schroy.

Returns from 180 precincts gave Schroy 34,970 votes and Judge Patterson 28,950.

At Canton, Smith until recently a political unknown, conceded the election of Mayor Seccombe.

"Apparently a majority of those who voted have a preference for my opponent" Smith said in a statement. "I hope that our present system of politics will always be retained, so the will of the majority will continue to be expressed through the ballot box."

Unofficial complete returns from the 126 precincts in Canton gave Smith 11,246 votes and Mayor Seccombe 24,061.

First Time In Years Barberton Man Has Felt Just Right

Victim of Indigestion from Excess Acid in Stomach—Constipation Made Him Sluggish and Filled Joints and Muscles Full of Pains

Now Gives World's Tonic Credit for Grand Relief

It is only natural that when you own a radio or buy a new car and you like them very much, you tell your friends about them. This is the same urge people have after taking World's Tonic. They want to tell everyone how much good it has done so others can enjoy the same relief and comfort. Hardly a day goes by but what some man or woman tells of the amazing benefit World's Tonic has given them and says put it in the paper if you wish.

Mr. Ira G. Bethume, a leading citizen of 230½ N. Lee St., Barberton, O., recently said: "I've been working very hard during the past several months and as a result, my health has commenced to give me trouble. To begin with, I had bowel trouble which forced me to take a laxative every day and this condition was probably responsible for much of my condition. My nerves were very jumpy. I couldn't sleep sound and I'd usually get up in the morning feeling tired or like as if I had been beaten with a club and stiff and suffering with a thumping headache. My greatest trouble, however, was probably indigestion and gas, for no matter how careful I was of what I ate I'd suffer pain and distress afterwards. What food I did eat had no taste for it.

"About a month ago I started taking World's Tonic and in that short time it has made me feel fine; the first time in years I've felt just right. It helped relieve my constipation; then my nerves settled down, sleep became sound and restful and my appetite picked up.

"World's Tonic acted promptly to relieve the excess acid condition in my stomach and now I never have cramps, heartburn or acid risings. I feel better in every way and give all the credit to World's Tonic."

World's Tonic is a modern up-to-date medicine, as it comes from the various parts of the world where we or most of our ancesters originally came from.

World's Tonic is for sale at CENTRAL DRUG STORE.—Adv. (D76)

COUNCIL OKAYS 20 MEASURES IN LESS THAN HOUR

Sets Speed Record In Busy Election Night Session; Budget Approved.

City council cracked another record last night when it approved 20 pieces of legislation in exactly 55 minutes in its rush to hear election returns.

The only major legislation, a resolution calling for approval of the city budget for 1938, received an official okay without any discussion.

The budget calls for $247,093 for operating expenses for 1938, exclusive of bond retirement and interest, $3,000 less than the city received this year.

Council also went about the business of transferrring funds and making supplemental appropriations that will keep the municipal purse in order as the fiscal year draws to a close. Six ordinances were approved calling for additional appropriations and five resolutions were adopted for the transfer of funds.

Variety of Appropriations.

Appropriations of $1,900 was authorized to provide for payment for improvements on Springmill street and Central avenue. Appropriations of $4,000 were made from the gas tax fund to pay for the resurfacing of North Mulberry street, and $800 from the auto registration fee fund for the payment of improvements on Remy avenue.

Other appropriations were 1,020 to the police department; $3,000 for the repair of curbs and gutters on Parkway street, Rae avenue, Dawson avenue, Myers avenue and Louise avenue, and $200 for Prospect Park.

Resolutions were passed authorizing transferring funds of $2,950 within the water works fund, $20 within the general fund, and $75 from the solicitors funds to the law library.

Council also referred to the street committee a petition from East Fourth street requesting parking limitations; tabled until next meeting claim of Dr. Frank Maxwell for $90 for services rendered city; authorized payment of $200 claim for services rendered city to Harry J. Brumenshenkel, architect, and referred to claims committee storm damage claim of $91.60 presented by C. A. Bonham, Willis avenue.

MONEY- "EASY MONEY" BLOOD MONEY WHEN THEY ACCEPT IT, THEY CONFESS THEIR GUILT- AND, BY THE SAME GESTURE, THEY SEAL THEIR FATE- AND THE FATE OF SUCH MEN IS-- DEATH!

MAYOR-ELECT 'AVERAGE MAN'

But Still He's Different—Says Running City Government Not One-Man Job.

Mansfield), and even in those years, it seemed a little inadequate.

But the $54 that he earned paid his first tuition fee to the Tri-State Normal school at Angola, O. He taught school for 10 years before he decided that he'd never be able to "put up a penny" that way, and so he started a small general store at Rome where he sold everything from pins to harvesters.

"There isn't anything to say about me that hasn't been said," he remarked ruefully. "You see I've run for office six times, which means that the public knows all about me that there is to know."

In those six campaigns, he was defeated twice. In 1930 he ran for First ward councilman against a boyhood friend, Sidney L Palmer. It was a strong Republican ward and he was defeated. Again three years ago he was a candidate for county treasurer in the primaries, but was defeated. He was elected twice as councilman-at-large and two years as president of council.

Came to Mansfield In 1917.

Mansfield's mayor-elect came to this city in 1917 from Rome, Bloominggrove township, and immediately obtained a job at the Ohio Brass company factory, where he is still employed and where he will continue to work until time to take office.

He smiled when he referred to the campaign charge that he was a "labor crusher."

"That didn't concern me much. I've worked in a factory for 20 years," he said. "The men I work with know me better than any outsider could, and for several years they elected me head of their Employes Civic Fund. It seemed to me that was about the best answer that could be made to the charge."

On one subject he gave the time-honored answer. "I haven't made campaign promises right and left. I didn't tell the ministers of the town that I would immediately stop all forms of petty gambling and I didn't tell the gamblers they could operate, nor the night spots and taverns that they could keep open beyond closing hours. I didn't promise anyone any concessions. I found long ago that the fewer campaign promises you make, the fewer embarrassments follow your election."

And so, according to his own statements, the new mayor of Mansfield, will take up office unencumbered by obligations, but with a determination to be guided by the best minds in his party and his city.

BIDS FOR PEACE

U. S. Envoy Urges Japan and China to Settle Dispute.

BRUSSELS—(AP)—Norman H Davis, leader of the United States delegation to the Brussels Far East peace conference, today exhorted Japan and China to settle their conflict "by peaceful processes."

Following closely upon the formal opening of the conference—under provisions of the nine-power part to protect China—Davis in direct and clear phrases told the world that the United States believed co-operation between Japan and China was essential to the best interests of both countries and "peace throughout the world."

The American's speech was interpreted as a bid for direct negotiations between the warring nations as well as leaving the door open for mediation through friendly, interested nations.

VOTERS REJECT 5-YEAR LEVY

65 Per Cent Rule Defeats Tax For Recreation Program But Fund Has Balance.

have had to be cast in favor of it, or 1,098 more than it actually received.

In percentages, the levy obtained only a 53 7 per cent majority.

In the first ward, the levy got 1,388 favorable votes and was 730 for the levy and 443 against —32 votes shy of a 65 per cent majority.

The third ward gave 1,193 for and 936 against In the fourth it failed of a majority, receiving 463 in favor and 539 against. In the Fifth, it eked out a 574 to 560 lead and in the Sixth it lost again, 803 for and 820 against

Meanwhile Floyd Dent, chairman of the recreation board said today that the defeat of the levy means the death of the playgrounds in Mansfield. "We have a balance in the recreation fund but when that is depleted our playgrounds will have to be shut down."

Dent said he did not know exactly what the balance in the fund would total.

He pointed out that the winter recreation program was "definitely out," and that curtailment in all activities would follow.

Republican party in the confidence of the people."

A member of council 10 years ago and a present member of the city board of health, Bierly made his best showing in the Second ward where he swept all five precincts. He carried this ward by a vote of 756 to 480, the only one of the six he won.

The Republican nominee took six of the 12 precincts in the Third and four of the 13 in the First.

Wins Own Precinct.

Bierly won his own precinct, 3-L, by a vote of 112 to 109. He also defeated Hunter in the latter's own precinct, 1-E, by a count of 114 to 107.

The new chief executive of the city is 62 years old. He was born June 14, 1874 in Blooming grove township in northern Richland county where he received his early education.

Hunter started his political career in 1931 when he was elected councilman-at-large. He was re-elected in 1933 and in 1935 in the face of a Republican landslide, was named president of council by a majority of 700.

For 10 years he taught school in his native Blooming grove township and for the last 20 years has been an employe of the Ohio Brass company.

The new mayor will take a vacation for the next two weeks and return to his duties at the Brass company Nov. 15. He plans to leave the employ of the company late in December to take over the mayoralty office.

Undecided On Cabinet.

Who will comprise his cabinet after the first of the year is something Hunter himself doesn't know, the mayor-elect said today.

"I am committed to no groups or factions and have made no promises," Hunter added. "The appointees will be announced in ample time, however."

Hunter resides at 312 Glessner avenue and has three daughters, two who are married. The oldest is a teacher at Senior High school.

Tuesday's election and the sweeping Democratic victory elevated to the council presidency, Karl P. Troll, the veteran member of council, who defeated A. O. Widders, Republican, 6,031 to 5,125.

Troll, now serving as councilman-at-large, formerly held the council presidency and prior to that represented the Third ward in the city legislative body.

He is the oldest member in years of service in council. Troll's majority of 1,906 was some 60 votes more than Mayor-elect Hunter's advantage over Bierly. He won five of the six wards.

Schettler Tops Republican.

City Solicitor Herbert H. Schettler, the first Republican to hold this office in more than three decades, lost out seeking his second term, being defeated by M. D. Ward, jr., by 805 votes. It was the closest race among the major offices.

Schettler polled an even 4,700 votes to 5,505 for Ward.

Winning the First, Second and Third wards, Schettler carried more precincts than any other Republican candidate, but could not overcome the big lead Atty. Ward piled up in the three Democratic strongholds, the Fourth, Fifth and Sixth wards.

The solicitor-elect was admitted to Ohio bar in 1934 and has been practicing law in Mansfield for the last thre years. He is a Mansfield native and was successful in his first try for a public office.

The Democratic sweep that took control of the city government out of Republican hands, also sent Glenn A. Davidson back as city treasurer. Davidson polled 5,660 votes to 4,584 for Dean Eckert, Republican incumbent.

Davidson was first elected treasurer in 1933 but lost to Eckert two years ago when he sought re-election. He won four of the six wards in Tuesday's voting.

G. O. P. KEEPS 4 COUNCIL PLACES

Democrats Elect 5 City Dads; Only Two Newcomers on Law-Making Body.

James E. Crum, Republican, and Karl P. Troll. The new councilman-at-large is Emmons, taking the place of Philip Smith, who was not up for re-election Smith was defeated in the Democratic mayoralty primary in August.

The closest ward council race was in the Third ward, where George C Kyle, Republican incumbent, defeated Henry A Beilstein by 117 votes. The count was 1,149 for Kyle and 1,032 for Beilstein. Early returns showed Beilstein ahead, but late precincts gave Kyle the lead and his second term.

In the First ward, Russell D. Porch, Republican incumbent, outdistanced William Fenn, a former councilman, by 239 votes. Councilman C. N. Shultz had no Democratic opposition in the second ward, and polled a complimentary vote of 790.

That gave the Republicans the first three wards in the city, but the Democrats took the other three.

Lester D. Hunter, Democrat, won re-election in the Fourth ward, defeating Harry Ross, softball player, 669 to 417, by 252 votes.

In the "Fightin' Fifth," perennially Democratic, Fred Miller had an easy time winning re-election over Thomas E. McMenamin, by better than a 3 to 1 margin. The vote was 982 for Miller and 307 for McMenamin.

In the Sixth ward, Arthur L. Croak, Democrat, won easily over Paul Selby, 990 to 657.

Berg, who now represents the Fifth ward, polled 5,936 votes to lead the six council-at-large candidates. In runner-up position was another Democrat, Harry M. Emmons, who polled 5,493 votes. Crum beat out Harry Lamb for the third seat as councilman-at-large by 541 votes. Crum polled 5,073 while Lamb, a Democrat, got 4,532 and ran out of the money. Also out of the money were the other two Republican candidates, Raymond J. Brown and Charles A. Condon. Brown got 3,977 votes and Condon polled 3,911.

Music Cards to Admit Members In Other Cities

Holders of membership cards in the Mansfield Civic Music association will be admitted to concerts under the association's sponsorship in any city in Ohio providing seating capacity permits, W. L. Miller president of the Mansfield association said today.

The service, he pointed out will permit a member to see a concert in a neighboring city which he may have missed in Mansfield or numbers which do not appear on the Mansfield program

Two of the numbers to be presented here will also be on the Sandusky schedule. They include the Ballet Russe on Dec. 16 and Douglas Beattie, bass-baritone soloist, March 16. The Ballet Russe number will open the Mansfield season at Senior high school Monday, Nov. 29.

For the benefit of Mansfield members who may want to attend concerts in Canton Miller announced the program for that city. The numbers follow:

The Vienna choir Nov. 3; Rabinof, Dec. 3; Anderson, Jan. 12; Trudi Schoop, Jan 28, and Lubo shutz and Nemenoff, March 24.

TAMMANY BOWS TO LA GUARDIA

N. Y. Mayor Carries Ticket to Victory; Strips 'Hall' of Last of Power.

ality of 108,496 votes. Complete returns from 1,055 districts gave Dewey, 325,420; Hastings, 216,924.

The Tammany wigwam, in contrast to its happy days of "Jimmy" Walker and his spats and Alfred E. Smith and his brown derby, was cloaked in gloom as the crushing defeat became apparent to the few optimistic enough to gather in its auditorium last night for a "victory celebration."

The anti-Tammany sweep was sufficiently strong to elect Joseph D. McGoldrick, Fusion candidate for controller, and Newbold Morris, Fusion candidate for president of the city council, and to give the mayor control of the board of estimate, long controlled by Tammany, which regulates the city's finances and patronage.

Tammany found slight consolation, but not much, in the election of James J. Lyons as borough president of the Bronx, Daniel E Finn, jr, as sheriff of New York county and the re-election of Miss Martha Byrne as register of Manhattan Borough.

Loses In Manhattan.

Even in Manhattan, its stronghold, Tammany's candidate for Borough president, Timothy J. Sullivan, lost to the Fusion candidate, Stanley M. Isaacs. Fusion candidates were re-elected in the boroughs of Brooklyn, Queens and Richmond

Bruce Barton, advertising executive, was elected to congress on the Republican ticket in the 17th "silk stocking" district to succeed the late Rep Theodore Peyser, Democrat. Barton piled up a substantial lead over his oponents, Stanley Osserman, Democrat, and George Backer, American labor party candidate.

National issues were not involved in the election, although Postmaster General James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee, campaigned for Mahoney. Mahoney also was supported by Gov. Herbert H. Lehman and U. S Senator Robert F. Wagner. La Guardia, always friendly to the new deal, was supported by Harold S Ickes, secretary of the interior.

From his home in Hyde Park, N. Y, President Roosevelt telephoned congratulations to La Guardia The mayor then issued this statement

"I wish to thank the people of New York. The people know what to expect. They have had four years of my kind of good government. They rendered their verdict"

By winning re-election La Guardia established himself as presidential timber in 1940. Republicans already have been urged by William Allen White, Kansas editor high in G. O. P. councils, to get aboard the La Guardia bandwagon.

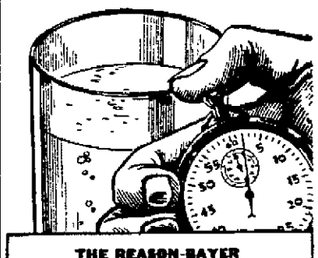
THE REASON HEADACHES ARE RELIEVED SO FAST



THE REASON-BAYER ASPIRIN WORKS SO FAST

Drop a Bayer Aspirin tablet into a tumbler of water.

By the time it hits the bottom of the glass it is disintegrating.

This speed of disintegration enables genuine BAYER Aspirin tablets to start "taking hold" of headache and similar pain a few minutes after taking.

All people who suffer occasionally from headaches ought to know this way to quick relief

At the first sign of such pain, take two Bayer Aspirin tablets with a half glass of water. Sometimes if the pain is more severe, another dose is necessary later, according to directions.

DOVER TO SELL REA POWER AT 1 CENT PER KWH

Ohio City, Rural Area to Be Benefitted By Cheap Rate, Washington Predicts.

WASHINGTON—(AP)— The rural electrification administration predicted today that a wholesale power contract signed by the city of Dover, O., with the Muskingum Valley Farm Bureau Electric Cooperative, Inc., would result in "considerable benefit to all parties."

Under the contract, the city's municipal plant will sell power to the co-operative at an averaeg rate of 1 cent per kilowatt hour, the lowest wholesale rate quoted any REA project in Ohio.

Aid to Plant.

"The addition of this co-operative load to the load of the city of Dover," REA said in a statement "will permit more efficient operation of the city's plant. Dover is now installing new and more efficient units. The annual payments of the co-operative to the city are exnected to be in excess of $7,000."

The section of the co-operative project affected by the contract consists of 170 miles of line to serve 600 customers in Tuscarawas county.

Another section of the project is obtaining power from the Central Ohio Light & Power company at 1.74 cents per kilowatt hour REA said among a score of rates quoted by Ohio power companies to REA projects, only five averaged less than 1 5 cents

"Municipal utilities of Ohio," said REA, "are now pointing the way to low rates. Private utilities have insisted on high rates to the point where various projects in Ohio have found it necessary to petition the public utilities commission for relief."

36 YOUNG "PIONEERS" CHOSEN FOR SESQUICENTENNIAL CARAVAN

The ox team caravan, feature spectacle of the celebration marking the sesqui centennial of Ordinance of 1787, which will recreate the trek of the pioneers into the Northwest territory 150 years ago, was one step nearer realization today. The caravan arrives in Mansfield in May.

The selection of 36 men from 13 different states, all of whom are between the ages of 25 and 35, has been made by the celebration commission.

These young "pioneers" who will form the caravan, and begin their trek on Dec. 3, met in Marietta today. They will be taken to Fort Devans at Ayer, Mass., where they will undergo a training period prior to their departure. The caravan with an ox team, Conestoga wagon, pack horse, and the men dressed in costumes of the period will leave Ipswich, Mass., Dec. 3. Arriving at Sumerill's Ferry, Pa., late in January, they will go into a forest and cut trees with which they will build boats to be used for the remainder of their journey down to the Ohio river to Marietta.

Arriving in Marietta April 7, they will continue through other cities in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, and Minnesota—which were carved out of the Northwest territory.

The caravan is scheduled to reach Mansfield on May 3 to take part in a historical paegant here Paul W. Williams, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce said that the Mansfield program may be held in South park at the site of the old blockhouse that figured in the Indian wars of 1787.

composed of members of Parent-Teacher associations throughout the city, presented them for election. The committee was then known as the Council of School Mothers. In 1933, yesterday's victorious trio went into office easily. Two years ago, the committee backed William C. Mead and Harold Bruce for the board and elected them, placing on the board all five of the candidates it had supported. In each instance, the victory of the committee-backed candidates was decisive, and yesterday's election continued the remarkable record.

The three re-elected school board members will serve four-year terms. The terms of Mead and Bruce do not expire until 1939.

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD

Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts

The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy greasy, coarse or rich foods or when you are nervous, hurried or there you're—poor stomach pours out too much acid. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain or sour stomach. You feel sour sick and upset all over.

Doctors say never take a laxative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and foolish. It takes those little black tablets called Bell-ans for indigestion to make the excess stomach fluids harmless relieve distress in 5 minutes and put you back on your feet. Relief is so quick it is amazing and one 25c package proves it. Ask for Bell-ans for indigestion. Sold everywhere. (c) Bell & Co. 1937

FAIL TO REVEAL NATIONAL TREND

Off Year Elections In Fifteen States Show Scattered Political Changes.

WASHINGTON—(AP)— Observers looked in vain today for any signs of a general political upheaval in the results of the off-year elections in 15 states.

Although evidences of party trends were rather scattered, they showed with some exceptions that Democrats were holding to the gains of recent years. The major Republican victory was won with coalition support by Mayor Fiorello La Guardia of New York, a supporter of President Roosevelt in 1936.

But while the elections disclosed no evidence of a significant shift between the major parties, they did suggest to some political seers the possibility of a new national party emerging in the next few years to challenge the present ones.

This suggestion arose because of the vote rolled up by the American Labor party in New York, and, despite CIO defeats in Detroit and two Ohio cities, because of victories in other communities of candidates backed by organized labor.

Some labor enthusiasts envisioned the possibility of the victorious La Guardia heading a national labor ticket in 1940, with the American Labor party forming the nucleus for the organization and co-operating with CIO and possibly American Federation of Labor forces elsewhere.

HUNTER WINS, DEMS TAKE ALL MAJOR OFFICES

New Mayor Captures 34 to 50 Precincts; Troll, Ward and Davidson Victors.

Republican party in the confidence of the people."

A member of council 10 years ago and a present member of the city board of health, Bierly made his best showing in the Second ward where he swept all five precincts. He carried this ward by a vote of 756 to 480, the only one of the six he won.

The Republican nominee took six of the 12 precincts in the Third and four of the 13 in the First.

Wins Own Precinct.

Bierly won his own precinct, 3-L, by a vote of 112 to 109. He also defeated Hunter in the latter's own precinct, 1-E, by a count of 114 to 107.

The new chief executive of the city is 63 years old. He was born June 14, 1874 in Bloominggrove township in northern Richland county where he received his early education.

Hunter started his political career in 1931 when he was elected councilman-at-large. He was re-elected in 1933 and in 1935 in the face of a Republican landslide, was named president of council by a majority of 700.

For 10 years he taught school in his native Bloominggrove township and for the last 20 years has been an employe of the Ohio Brass company.

The new mayor will take a vacation for the next two weeks and return to his duties at the Brass company Nov. 15. He plans to leave the employ of the company late in December to take over the mayoralty office.

Undecided On Cabinet.

Who will comprise his cabinet after the first of the year is something Hunter himself doesn't know, the mayor-elect said today.

"I am committed to no groups or factions and have made no promises," Hunter added. "The appointees will be announced in ample time, however."

Hunter resides at 312 Glessnes avenue and has three daughters, two who are married. The oldest is a teacher at Senior High school.

Tuesday's election and the sweeping Democratic victory elevated to the council presidency, Karl P. Troll, the veteran member of council, who defeated A. O. Widders, Republican, 6,031 to 5,125.

Troll, now serving as councilman-at-large, formerly held the council presidency and prior to that represented the Third ward in the city legislative body.

He is the oldest member in years of service in council. Troll's majority of 1,906 was some 60 votes more than Mayor-elect Hunter's advantage over Bierly. He won five of the six wards.

Schettler Tops Republican.

City Solicitor Herbert H. Schettler, the first Republican to hold this office in more than three decades, lost out seeking his second term, being defeated by M. D. Ward, jr., by 805 votes. It was the closest race among the major offices.

Schettler polled an even 4,700 votes to 5,505 for Ward.

Winning the First, Second and Third wards, Schettler carried more precincts than any other Republican candidate, but could not overcome the big lead Atty. Ward piled up in the three Democratic strongholds, the Fourth, Fifth and Sixth wards.

The solicitor-elect was admitted to Ohio bar in 1934 and has been practicing law in Mansfield for the last thre years. He is a Mansfield native and was successful in his first try for a public office.

The Democratic sweep that took control of the city government out of Republican hands, also sent Glenn A. Davidson back as city treasurer. Davidson polled 5,660 votes to 4,584 for Dean Eckert, Republican incumbent.

Davidson was first elected treasurer in 1933 but lost to Eckert two years ago when he sought re-election. He won four of the six wards in Tuesday's voting.

Holders of membership cards in the Mansfield Civic Music association will be admitted to concerts under the association's sponsorship in any city in Ohio providing seating capacity permits, W. L. Miller president of the Mansfield association said today.

The service, he pointed out will permit a member to see a concert in a neighboring city which he may have missed in Mansfield or numbers which do not appear on the Mansfield program

Two of the numbers to be presented here will also be on the Sandusky schedule. They include the Ballet Russe on Dec 16 and Douglas Beattie, bass-baritone soloist, March 16. The Ballet Russe number will open the Mansfield season at Senior high school Monday, Nov. 29.

For the benefit of Mansfield members who may want to attend concerts in Canton Miller announced the program for that city. The numbers follow

The Vienna choir, Nov 3, Rabinof, Dec. 3; Anderson, Jan. 12 Trudi Schoop, Jan 28, and Luboshutz and Nemenoff, March 24.

James E Crum, Republican, and Karl P Troll. The new councilman-at-laige is Emmons, taking the place of Philip Smith, who was not up for re-election. Smith was defeated in the Democratic majority primary in August

The closest ward council race was in the Third ward, where George C Kyle, Republican incumbent, defeated Henry A. Beilstein by 117 votes The count was 1,149 for Kyle and 1,032 for Beilstein Early returns showed Beilstein ahead, but late precincts gave Kyle the lead and his second term.

In the First ward, Russell D Porch, Republican incumbent, outdistanced William Fenn, a former councilman, by 239 votes Councilman C. N. Shultz, had no Democratic opposition in the second ward and polled a complimentary vote of 790.

That gave the Republicans the first three wards in the city, but the Democrats took the other three

Lester D. Hunter, Democrat, won re-election in the Fourth ward defeating Harry Ross, softball player, 669 to 417, by 252 votes

In the "Fightin' Fifth," perennially Democratic, Fred Miller had an easy time winning re-election over Thomas E McMenamin, by better than a 3 to 1 margin The vote was 982 for Miller and 307 for McMenamin.

In the Sixth ward, Arthur L. Croak, Democrat won easily over Paul Selby, 990 to 657

Berg who now represents the Fifth ward, polled 5 936 votes to lead the six council-at-large candidates In runner-up position was another Democrat, Harry M Emmons, who polled 5 493 votes. Crum beat out Harry Lamb for the third seat as councilman-at-large by 541 votes Crum polled 5 073 while Lamb a Democrat, got 4,532 and ran out of the money Also out of the money were the other two Republican candidates, Raymond J. Brown and Charles A Condon Brown got 3,977 votes and Condon polled 3,911

TAMMANY BOWS TO LA GUARDIA

N. Y. Mayor Carries Ticket to Victory; Strips 'Hall' of Last of Power.

ality of 108,496 votes. Complete returns from 1,055 districts gave Dewey, 325,420; Hastings, 216,924

The Tammany wigwam, in contrast to its happy days of "Jimmy" Walker and his spats and Alfred E. Smith and his brown derby, was cloaked in gloom as the crushing defeat became apparent to the few optimistic enough to gather in its auditorium last night for a "victory celebration."

The anti-Tammany sweep was sufficiently strong to elect Joseph D. McGoldrick, Fusion candidate for controller, and Newbold Morris, Fusion candidate for president of the city council, and to give the mayor control of the board of estimate, long controlled by Tammany, which regulates the city's finances and patronage.

Tammany found slight consolation, but not much, in the election of James J Lyons as borough president of the Bronx, Daniel E Finn, jr., as sheriff of New York county and the re-election of Miss Martha Byrne as register of Manhattan Borough.

Loses In Manhattan.

Even in Manhattan, its stronghold, Tammany's candidate for Borough president, Timothy J. Sullivan, lost to the Fusion candidate, Stanley M. Isaacs. Fusion candidates were re-elected in the boroughs of Brooklyn, Queens and Richmond.

Bruce Barton, advertising executive, was elected to congress on the Republican ticket in the 17th "silk stocking" district to succeed the late Rep Theodore Peyser, Democrat. Barton piled up a substantial lead over his oponents, Stanley Osserman, Democrat, and George Backer, American labor party candidate.

National issues were not involved in the election, although Postmaster General James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee, campaigned for Mahoney. Mahoney also was supported by Gov. Herbert H. Lehman and U. S Senator Robert F. Wagner. La Guardia, always friendly to the new deal, was supported by Harold S. Ickes, secretary of the interior.

From his home in Hyde Park, N. Y., President Roosevelt telephoned congratulations to La Guardia The mayor then issued this statement·

"I wish to thank the people of New York. The people know what to expect. They have had four years of my kind of good government They rendered their verdict"

By winning re-election La Guardia established himself as presidential timber in 1940. Republicans already have been urged by William Allen White, Kansas editor high in G O. P. councils, to get aboard the La Guardia bandwagon.

THE REASON HEADACHES ARE RELIEVED SO FAST

THE REASON BAYER ASPIRIN WORKS SO FAST

Drop a Bayer Aspirin tablet into a tumbler of water.

By the time it hits the bottom of the glass it is disintegrating.

This speed of disintegration enables genuine BAYER Aspirin tablets to start "taking hold" of headache and similar pain a few minutes after taking.

All people who suffer occasionally from headaches ought to know this way to quick relief.

At the first sign of such pain, take two Bayer Aspirin tablets with a half glass of water. Sometimes if the pain is more severe, another dose is necessary later, according to directions.

If headaches keep coming back we advise you to see your own physician. He will look for the cause in order to correct it.

The price now is only 15¢ for twelve tablets or two full dozen for 25 cents — virtually, only a cent apiece.

DOVER TO SELL REA POWER AT 1 CENT PER KWH

Ohio City, Rural Area to Be Benefitted By Cheap Rate, Washington Predicts.

WASHINGTON—(AP)— The rural electrification administration predicted today that a wholesale power contract signed by the city of Dover, O., with the Muskingum Valley Farm Bureau Electric Co-operative, Inc., would result in "considerable benefit to all parties."

Under the contract, the city's municipal plant will sell power to the co-operative at an averaeg rate of 1 cent per kilowatt hour, the lowest wholesale rate quoted any REA project in Ohio.

Aid to Plant.

"The addition of this co-operative load to the load of the city of Dover," REA said in a statement "will permit more efficient operation of the city's plant. Dover is now installing new and more efficient units The annual payments of the co-operative to the city are expected to be in excess of $7,000."

The section of the co-operative project affected by the contract consists of 170 miles of line to serve 600 customers in Tuscarawas county.

Another section of the project is obtaining power from the Central Ohio Light & Power company at 1.74 cents per kilowatt hour REA said among a score of rates quoted by Ohio power companies to REA projects, only five averaged less than 1 5 cents.

"Municipal utilities of Ohio," said REA, "are now pointing the way to low rates. Private utilities have insisted on high rates to the point where various projects in Ohio have found it necessary to petition the public utilities commission for relief."

Alvin Fankhauser.

Dr. John S. Hattery.

Harold W. Arlin.

Three men who were named to the Mansfield board of education four years ago, with the backing of the Mansfield Schools committee, an organization composed chiefly of women, will serve for four more years, as a result of their victory at the polls yesterday, again with the backing of the same organization. They were selected over Paul R. Spencer and Thomas Williams, campaigning as labor candidates, by a margin of nearly 2 to 1

36 YOUNG "PIONEERS" CHOSEN FOR SESQUICENTENNIAL CARAVAN

The ox team caravan, feature spectacle of the celebration marking the sesqui centennial of Ordinance of 1787, which will recreate the trek of the pioneers into the Northwest territory 150 years ago, was one step nearer realization today. The caravan arrives in Mansfield in May.

The selection of 36 men from 13 different states, all of whom are between the ages of 25 and 35, has been made by the celebration commission.

These young "pioneers" who will form the caravan, and begin their trek on Dec. 3, met in Marietta today. They will be taken to Fort Devans at Ayer, Mass., where they will undergo a training period prior to their departure. The caravan with an ox team, Conestoga wagon, pack horse, and the men dressed in costumes of the period will leave Ipswich, Mass., Dec. 3. Arriving at Sumerill's Ferry, Pa., late in January, they will go into a forest and cut trees with which they will build boats to be used for the remainder of their journey down to the Ohio river to Marietta.

Arriving in Marietta April 7, they will continue through other cities in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, and Minnesota—which were carved out of the Northwest territory.

The caravan is scheduled to reach Mansfield on May 3 to take part in a historical paegant here. Paul W. Williams, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce said that the Mansfield program may be held in South park at the site of the old blockhouse that figured in the Indian wars of 1787.

composed of members of Parent-Teacher associations throughout the city, presented them for election. The committee was then known as the Council of School Mothers. In 1933, yesterday's victorious trio went into office easily. Two years ago, the committee backed William C. Mead and Harold Bruce for the board and elected them, placing on the board all five of the candidates it had supported. In each instance, the victory of the committee-backed candidates was decisive, and yesterday's election continued the remarkable record.

The three re-elected school board members will serve four-year terms The terms of Mead and Bruce do not expire until 1939.

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD

Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts

The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy greasy, coarse or rich foods or when you are nervous hurried or chew poorly—your stomach pours out too much fluid. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas heartburn, nausea, pain or sour stomach. You feel sour sick and upset all over.

Doctors say never take a laxative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and foolish. It takes those little black tablets called Bell-ans for indigestion to make the excess stomach fluids harmless relieve distress in 5 minutes and put you back on your feet. Relief is so quick it is amazing and one 25c package proves it. Ask for Bell-ans for indigestion. Sold everywhere. (c) Bell & Co. 1937

FAIL TO REVEAL NATIONAL TREND

Off Year Elections In Fifteen States Show Scattered Political Changes.

WASHINGTON—(AP)— Observers looked in vain today for any signs of a general political upheaval in the results of the off-year elections in 15 states.

Although evidences of party trends were rather scattered, they showed with some exceptions that Democrats were holding to the gains of recent years. The major Republican victory was won with coalition support by Mayor Fiorello La Guardia of New York, a supporter of President Roosevelt in 1936.

But while the elections disclosed no evidence of a significant shift between the major parties, they did suggest to some political seers the possibility of a new national party emerging in the next few years to challenge the present ones.

This suggestion arose because of the vote rolled up by the American Labor party in New York, and, despite CIO defeats in Detroit and two Ohio cities, because of victories in other communities of candidates backed by organized labor.

Some labor enthusiasts envisioned the possibility of the victorious La Guardia heading a national labor ticket in 1940, with the American Labor party forming the nucleus for the organization and co-operating with CIO and possibly American Federation of Labor forces elsewhere.

TRADE SCHOOL CLASSES OPEN THURSDAY NIGHT

School Board Allows Use of Senior High Equipment For Three Groups.

Night trade school classes in machine shop work, mathematics and drawing will be held twice a week at Senior high school, beginning Thursday night, as a result of action taken by the board of education.

Use of the equipment and class rooms was authorized by the board, but the only expense to the schools will be the cost of heat and light during the two-hour class periods, Supt. W. L. Miller said.

30 Enrolled in Classes.

More than 30 pupils past high school age have enrolled for the classes. They will pay a $2 tuition fee per subject for a 12-week term. An equal amount of federal funds distributed through the state department of education, will meet the remaining cost of the courses.

The classes, to be held Tuesday and Thursday from 7 to 9 p. m., will be under the direction of V. H. Oberlander, vocational education director at the Senior high who will teach the class in machine shop. The other instructors will be H. C. Miller, drawing, and Alfred Chabourel, mathematics.

Supt. Miller said today it is possible that a class in auto mechanics will be added with H. R. Kinker as teacher.

Most of the pupils, Miller said, are past high school age and are regularly employed during the day. They receive 48 hours of instruction during the 12-week term.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

The Mansfield News Founded by W. S. Cappeller, March 7, 1885.

Office: Fourth and Walnut, Mansfield, Ohio. Phone: Canal 4251.

Entered at Postoffice at Mansfield, Ohio, as second-class mail matter.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES — By Mail, Richland and adjoining counties, per year, $4.00; 6 months, $2.25; 3 months, $1.25, (in advance), elsewhere in Ohio per year, $6.00, in U. S. outside of Ohio, per year, $7.00. By Carrier, per week, 15c.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1937.

For those who didn't know there was to be one, it may be remarked that the election is now over.

In the absence of war, traffic accidents are serving quite well in keeping down the population in this country.

Word from Washington is that in the National Museum alone there are more than 10,000 empty skulls—which should not be confused with those employed on various federal jobs.

Responsibility and Opportunity.

AS has been the experience in Mansfield on a number of previous occasions, voters yesterday reversed a large Republican majority of two years ago to elect Claude M. Hunter, Democrat, as mayor, together with practically the entire Democratic ticket.

Yesterday's results, contrasted with those of two years ago, evidence the complete independence of a large percentage of Mansfield voters, and the ease with which they cross party lines in expressing preference between candidates.

The outcome yesterday indicates public dissatisfaction with the administration in power during the past two years, just as the Republican sweep of two years ago showed disapproval of the policies of the preceding administration.

Election of Mr. Hunter to the office of mayor, by a considerable majority, may be accepted as an expression of confidence in him—and a belief that he will perform the duties of his office to the best of his ability.

His experience as councilman-at-large, and more recently as president of council, has been such as to fully acquaint him with the legislative phases of city government, while earlier experience should have served to familiarize him with administrative and executive duties which will devolve upon him.

An interesting commentary on Mr. Hunter's serious approach to his new responsibilities is that part of his statement in which he says: "No man can serve in this capacity alone and be successful. Therefore I am asking the co-operation and whole-hearted support of all citizens of Mansfield."

This appreciation of the need of public support and co-operation in directing the public business of Mansfield evidences an understanding that a public official, however capable he may be, must at times be dependent on others for encouragement and help in carrying through any plans for community advancement.

It would at least serve as an interesting experiment to enter upon an administration based on a sincere effort to enforce existing laws impartially and to conduct all city departments along lines planned to give efficient public service rather than to reward partisan activity without regard for qualifications.

Mayor-elect Hunter faces a wonderful opportunity for performance of valuable service to this city. It is the hope of all good citizens that his administration will be such as to reflect credit upon himself and those who will be associated with him in conducting the business of Mansfield.

Time for Modern Traffic Code.

MANSFIELD'S traffic situation has been so badly fumbled during the past few months that it appears advisable to seek a new starting place from which to proceed toward improvement.

A number of other cities have shown marked progress along this line—but in all such instances the improvement has been brought about as a result of preliminary study and definite planning rather than by the trial-and-error system of experimentation that has been indulged in here.

In Warren, for instance, adoption of a new traffic code followed more than a year's work by city council, chamber of commerce and safety council committees, aided by an experienced traffic engineer.

Into Warren's new traffic code are incorporated the best features of the National Safety Council's model traffic code, selections from the most recent legislation of other progressive cities, and adaptations to specific local conditions, looking to the protection and convenience of pedestrians as well as motorists.

It cannot be expected that either city officials, or other persons whose work is along entirely different lines, will have the expert knowledge required to devise a traffic code suitable to a city of Mansfield's size and peculiar street arrangement. At least there has thus far been no evidence of such knowledge being locally available.

Playground Levy Defeated.

DEFEAT of the tenth of a mill tax levy for recreational purposes cannot be interpreted as meaning that a large number of Mansfield people are opposed to community playgrounds or to the expenditure of public funds in carrying on a program of healthful recreation.

While a majority of the votes cast on this issue were favorable, there was not the 65 per cent necessary for adoption.

Maintenance of playgrounds and recreation centers is a community obligation that cannot be sidestepped. It links closely with the problem of reducing juvenile delinquency and serves to direct activities of children along lines that are beneficial in many ways.

There must be expansion, rather than reduction, in Mansfield's public playgrounds and recreational activities. The money that would have been made available by the tenth of a mill levy will have to be provided in some other way.

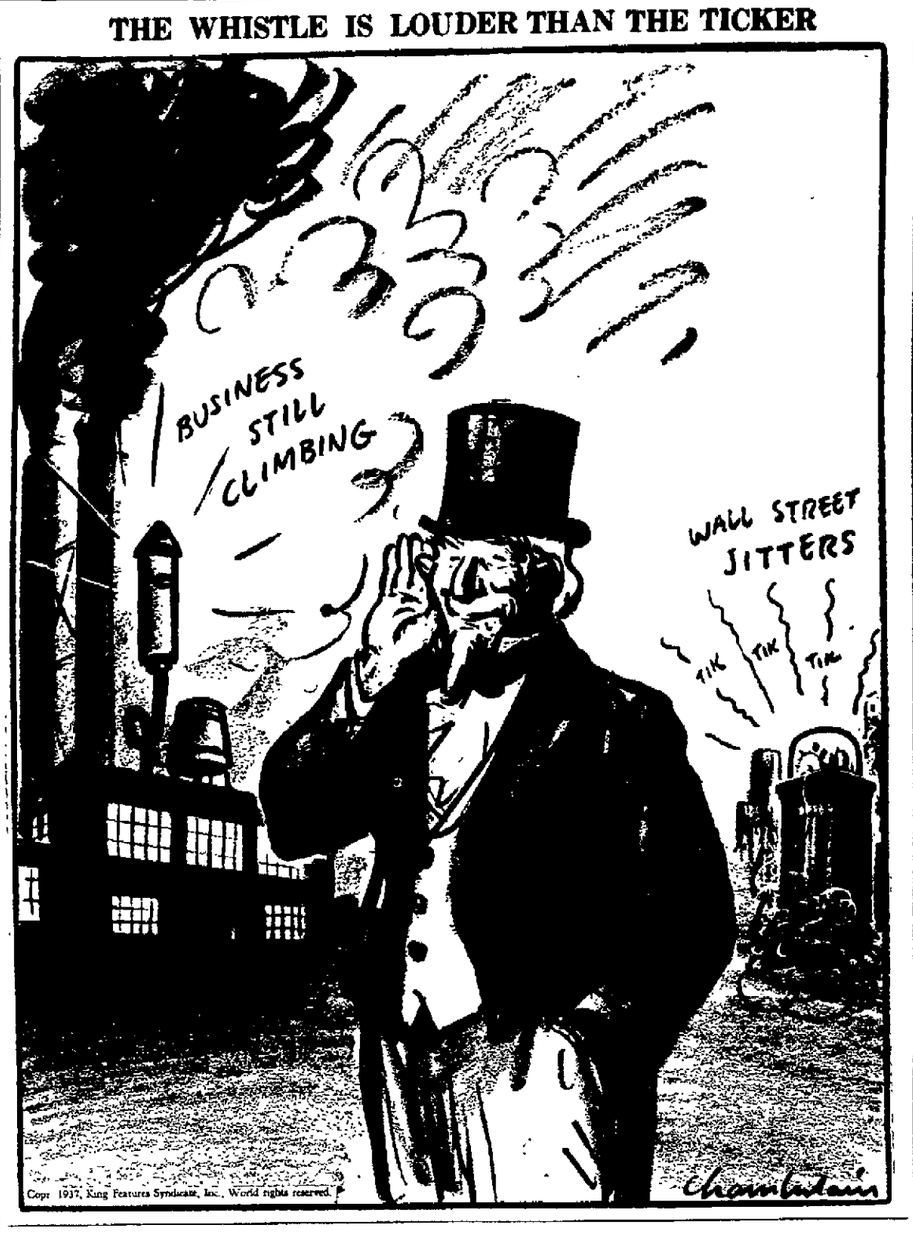
England Wants Edward.

THE AMERICAN device of private polls to discover public sentiment has reached England, and some of the first fruits are surprising. A national poll just taken by a magazine indicates that 61 per cent of the English people want the Duke and Duchess of Windsor to come back.

Evidently the British press and government have not reflected public sentiment. The question answered affirmatively in this poll was not whether the banished couple should be "allowed to return to England," but whether they should be "invited to return to England to live." The verdict is a clear victory for the Duke and his American bride.

It appears that Caesar is principally remembered in surgical circles by his method of arrival, rather than what he did afterward.

THE WHISTLE IS LOUDER THAN THE TICKER



China Will Win Eventually, Envoy Predicts

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON — Ambassador Wang of China, addressing the National Press club recently, had one big advantage over Ambassador Saito, who addressed the same club a fortnight previously.

His advantage was a very sympathetic audience, in comparison with the Japanese diplomat's polite but rather chilly one.

Ambassador Wang also has a keen sense of American humor. He makes points and gets laughs that Ambassador Saito is incapable of. Moreover, Ambassador Saito talked "Off the record." Ambassador Wang expressed himself as willing to be quoted, giving the impression that China has nothing to hide, whereas Japan has designs it has to keep secret.

• • •

FIRST DEMOCRACY?

Ambassador Wang made out a corking good case for his country as a democratic country.

He related that China, away before the Christian era, did have a dictator—a Fascist of his day, who burned at the stake 1,000 scholars (brain trusters), for disagreeing with him.

But that period, he pointed out, lasted only 39 years in a period of thousands.

His view is, that reckoned in milleniums, China is the most liberty-loving country ever invented. He indulged in no jabs at Japan, by name, but he strongly implied that democracies ought to be pro-Chinese, as against Nippon.

"A SLEEPING ELEPHANT"

China, remarked Ambassador Wang, has been described as a "sleeping lion."

It is no such thing, replied the ambassador — it is a "sleeping elephant.

A lion, he said, is a quarrelsome cat — potentially so even when asleep and actively so the minute it is awakened.

The elephant, however, is peaceful.

But arouse an elephant and irritate the "critter" sufficiently, continued the ambassador, and he is plenty belligerent.

TO SWALLOW JAPAN?

China hates being aggressed upon, said Ambassador Wang, but if it IS aggressed upon, it has no recourse but to resist, and then attend to the territory of its aggressor.

The conclusion would seem to be that Japan, having tried to gobble China, will be gobbled BY China.

Japan?—with 75,000,000 inhabitants?

China?—with 475,000,000 inhabitants?

It makes Ambassador Wang smile.

CHINA WIN?—IN 1,000 YEARS!

Can Japan's "pep" offset the difference between the two countries?

I would hope not.

Japan IS "peppy."

China IS substantial.

China will win—

But it may be 1,000 years from now.

That was Ambassador Wang's talk.

Why Can't You Believe?

THE MACHINE AGE has gotten Marjorie Miller. She can't, she says, "believe in anything any more."

It was all right until she went to college. Then the professors began to give her a work-out.

"Day after day," she writes, "they'd let us analyze something until it seemed absolutely irrefutable. Then the professor would reveal the fallacies in it."

This shocked Marjorie . . . frightened her. With each fresh shock something seemed to go out of her . . . our of life. Until at last "everything seemed dark and empty and cold." So now—what? Wherever she turns, there's a void. Nothing seems real . . . nothing worth while. She can "believe in nothing for the sake of anything."

The universal wail. Not just the religious lament of church people, but the common cry of humanity everywhere, regardless of who they are, what they have. A cry as fundamental as hunger, thirst, cold. WE NEED TO BELIEVE. BUT WE'VE LOST OUR WAY . . .

We have everything else which our fathers didn't have, but we lack the one thing which our fathers did have, which gave warmth to their loves and passion, and purpose, and pride . . . WE LACK THEIR FAITH. WE CAN'T BELIEVE IN GOD OR IN PEOPLE; IN LIFE OR IN OURSELVES.

We've eaten our apple and lost our Paradise. We've sold our birthright of courage and confidence for a "pottage" of sneer and doubt.

Yet we MUST believe—or we'll die. We NEED to have FAITH, as surely as we need to have FOOD or FIRE or DRINK. Things happen to people who don't believe: people who can only doubt or sneer. Not church things . . . but plain, practical things. They go sour . . . they shrink . . . they dry up. They hate and are hated. There's no zest in their lives . . . no song. We MUST believe if we want to live. But how?

Well, how do we do those other things which are essential to our lives? How do we eat or drink . . . or light our way . . . or fall in love? Do we wait for PROOF before we do these things? No, we don't. We don't PROVE water, before we drink it . . . nor UNDERSTAND electricity before we use it . . . nor ANALYZE love before we fill our hearts with its song.

As a matter of fact, we CAN'T prove these things. They are wrapt in wonder and mystery which no one can explain. Yet we accept them . . . we are grateful for them . . . we base our lives upon them.

WHY, THEN, MUST WE WAIT FOR PROOF BEFORE WE HAVE FAITH?

There is a longing in us crueler than hunger and a loneliness more terrible than thirst. There is a need we ourselves cannot name. Luxuries pile about us, but they do not satisfy us. We are filled with doubt. Only one thing will help us—and that is FAITH.

Yet we cannot believe. We want proof. But there is no proof of anything. There are mountains of evidence all around us, but they can be twisted as the university professor twisted fact—for good, or for evil, or for nothing. There is no proof. There is only Faith. And we must have Faith or something within us will die.

So what?

Take faith. Take God and goodness . . . beauty and truth. Don't try to prove these things. Don't wait for overwhelming evidence. Just say to yourself—

"I BELIEVE! I BELIEVE, BECAUSE I NEED TO BELIEVE . . . BECAUSE I CHOOSE TO BELIEVE. I CANNOT PROVE GOD . . . NOR EXPLAIN HIS WAYS. I WILL ONLY GIVE MYSELF A HEADACHE AND A HEARTACHE IF I TRY. BUT THIS I CAN DO—

"I CAN CHOOSE TO BELIEVE. I CAN TAKE FAITH AS I WOULD TAKE WATER OR LIGHT OR LOVE. WITHOUT PROVING IT. AND THE INSTANT I DECIDE TO BELIEVE, MY WHOLE LIFE WILL BE REFRESHED . . . AS MY BODY WOULD BE REFRESHED IF I TOOK WATER OR FIRE."

You need to believe? You want to believe? Then believe—and stop fussing!

Tomorrow's Lure.

Tomorrows tremble in my hand,
And lovely is their lure.
But of their visioning I can
At no time be quite sure.

So I will take today and make
The most of it, I'll go
Along the length and breadth of it
And every beauty know.

And every lesson learn. Today
Is in my grasp, is mine,
Tomorrows, with their promises,
For me may glow and shine,

But this today, this I will know,
For it is surely here,
And I will find its wonder while
I contemplate next year.

Will La Guardia Become Republican Star?

FIORELLO H. LA GUARDIA, by winning re-election as mayor of New York by a large margin, becomes a Republican presidential possibility, regardless of efforts to classify him as "too regional" or "merely New York."

He is a spectacular man, always in the public eye. He has proved himself to be an excellent administrator. And in the lower house of congress he became so outstanding as to be the best known member. Those who did not applaud, hissed. Labor was among those to applaud.

YET—

Yet, if the Republicans should overrule the conservatives in the party and choose La Guardia, could he carry the middle west? After all, even though he is American to the core and a war hero, he does not look American. This may seem a terrible indictment of the American people—and perhaps is—but such matters count in a close election.

If that were all, the middle west could be convinced. But it is not all. La Guardia is not diplomatic. In the majority of instances, one exclaims: "Thank goodness for that!" But when it comes to foreign affairs, one fears the outspoken remarks of a La Guardia. Wars have been started on less.

A BRILLIANT MIND.

Yet, again—La Guardia's popularity is remarkable. To win both conservative Republicans and extreme leftists, to have them both cheering for one, is no mean feat. The Republicans need a man like that. So do the Democrats.

Does anyone imagine that a Wallace or a Barkley or a—well, who else?—would have the vote-getting power of Franklin D. Roosevelt?

A La Follette would have strong attractive power—but he's a Progressive, no Democrat.

True, a La Guardia is no Republican, in spite of the G. O. P. trimmings.

La Guardia, however, is a Progressive who will appoint Republicans to office—and that's what Republicans need more than anything else these days. They are starved as the Democrats formerly were. (Incidentally, La Guardia believes thoroughly in civil service; and that is why New York is so well insulated these days against waste and graft.)

STARS.

In short, will political parties, like the movies, have to hitch their wagons to a star? Is it possible that political parties these days are no stronger than certain luminous individuals? And will the Republicans bid for La Guardia to take them on a flight through the heavens toward—they hope—victory? Even as F.D.R. took the Democrats?

• • •

CONTRA.

There are conflicting opinions concerning La Guardia. A reviewer of a new book on La Guardia by Jay Franklin, the columnist, says some pert words.

This reviewer, I. F. Stone, asserts in the New Republic.

"I am going to vote for La Guardia. A victory for Tammany would be a calamity. But I would prefer a better choice in 1940 than one between a reactionary and the mercurial La Guardia.

"He is a friend of labor, but he took New York's taxi drivers for a ride. He has been better than Tammany on relief, but he assailed the leader of an unemployed demonstration as a 'yellow dog.' He makes strong speeches on power, but he sabotaged the fight for a municipal power plant in New York City; strong speeches on milk, but the eight-cent municipal milk so blithely applauded by Mr. Franklin is invisible to the naked eye.

"He is a leader of democratic forces, but a dictator by nature. He trounces Hitler (to get Jewish votes) but plays safe on Mussolini (to keep Italian votes).

"He is loud in denouncing the interests but cautious in dealing with them. Wall Street knows that he is more bark than bite; a tub-thumper rather than a radical."

—By PRESTON GROVER—

When Capital "Goes On a Strike."

WASHINGTON—Without much talk about it, the treasury is giving study to the problem of reducing income tax rates in the higher brackets, revising the capital gains tax and modifying as well the tax schedule in the 1936 undistributed profits tax.

A primary reason is the complaint reaching treasury ears with increasing force that the man of large means cannot operate in the market because he is fenced in so effectively by taxes that he prefers to sit tight. It has been called a "capital strike."

When the rich man stays out of the market, does little speculating to earn fat profits and otherwise pulls his neck under his shell, his outlay for taxes is less. And further, his capital is idle, or partly so. The result is that the long chain of new business that fresh capital starts when invested in industry is absent. And that means more taxes the government doesn't get, and less recovery for the country.

• • •

Just Suppose.

TO ONE treasury official we posed this proposition:

Take a rich man. His earnings already are so high that if he makes any more money it will fall in the 75 per cent bracket of the income tax law. In other words, 75 per cent of his next earnings will go to the government.

During the summer — before the recent market drop — there comes to that rich man an opportunity to invest in securities to expand a certain business. If successful, the expansion promises in a few years to pay good dividends and securities will increase in value. If it is a flop, he loses his money.

In order to raise capital to invest in these new securities, the rich man must sell some stocks he bought several months earlier. They have increased handsomely in value. If he sells them, 75 per cent of this increase will go to the government. Moreover, so "thin" is the buying power in the market that if he offers a large block of stock the price will sag and the receipts will be diminished.

Will he, nevertheless, sell this block of safe stock, turn over to the government 75 per cent of the gain in its value, sustain a further loss on the thin market, and then risk the remainder in a speculative business that may or may not pay out for several years or not pay out at all?

• • •

Problem Recognized.

AND the treasury official replied that the rich man probably would keep his money in the sound stocks.

Be assured that treasury officials do not say directly what will be done about it. But that practical situation, albeit in modified form in most instances, is what some treasury officials suspect occurred before the recent collapse in the market.

The recognition of this problem is in part what is prompting treasury consideration of modifications of the capital gains tax and the high income tax brackets. Other factors are inviting them also to look critically at the corporate undivided profits tax.

They may not act sweepingly in all fields, but odds are good around here that something affecting these matters will be recommended to congress.

Election Day Thoughts.

Editor News-Journal:—/

Since this is written and posted on election day there can be no inference that any personal question enters into its writing.

We have heard much concerning the character and attainments of candidates, of their fitness, for the various posts, of promises to be faithful if elected. If all this be true, how fine for our city that it is bound to have a man of integrity and honor at its head.

How superlatively fine, too, if this mayor of ours would resolve right in the beginning to fulfil his promises to the letter: to work for good and against evil with no attempt at compromise. And what he might accomplish! "My strength is as the strength of ten, because my heart is pure," once wrote a wise man.

This mayor of ours would throw all his influence and power toward law enforcement; he would hold liquor dealers to law observance; he would put out slot-machines and keep them out; he would curb the big gamblers and put out the petty gambling devices which infest the city, tempting every child and making him a potential gambler. He would make conditions such that good policemen could remain good. He would make law and order supreme.

Would he be re-elected? Probably not, but he would have saved far more than the office could ever give him. He would have preserved his manhood and his honor. There would be no fear in his heart, no hesitation in looking every citizen in the face, no remorse of conscience. No, he might not be re-elected, but what a glorious time he would have! Always one of his backers would be

McIntyre's New York Day by Day

MAY and December romances in New York are acquiring a stability the younger folk muff. While the latter splatter the news columns with dashes to Reno, Youth and Age are seen everywhere fairly beaming with marital happiness.

O. O. McIntyre

One of the season's romantic stressings of the disparity of ages was the wedding of Ed Wynn and Frieda Mierse. She is the tall and stately show-girl type and was for several seasons in the Follies and Wynn's theatrical enterprises. Wynn is 20 years the senior of his bride.

They sailed away on his yacht as happy as a pair of love birds and returned to reside in the fashionable Park avenue section. George Blumenthal, the art collector, married a lady many years his junior and they are very happy. The same is true of the Sam Goldwyns.

The romance of Jimmy Walker and Betty Compton has, despite all predictions, been idyllic. And the millionaire Jules Brulatour and the much younger Hope Hampton are always together cooing like turtle doves. And that applies also to the Nicholas Schencks.

Sublime satire: The biggest chuckle in the play in which George M. Cohan impersonates the president is during a cabinet meeting. The president suddenly turns to his attorney general and barks: "Cummings, take a law!"

Upper Park avenue is to have a deluxe cheese shop, a miniature Taj Mahal dealing only in various brands of cheese, domestic and foreign. For the past few years the metropolis has been showing a growing cheese consciousness. In the finer restaurants the displays on the portable tables are works of art. Many eating places, Holland fashion, also list cheese on breakfast menus. One of the publishing houses is readying a book to appeal solely to the cheese connoisseurs. Bruno Lessing is an expert cheesist.

Three havens for the stay-outs are Reuben's, Lindy's, and Dave's Blue Room. They are the last spots in a night on the loose and where the roysterers fortify themselves with ham and eggs, onion soup or steaming bowls of chili. Everybody is usually in a mellow mood when they show up around 3 a. m. and life goes along like a song. If there is a flare up of temper it doesn't last long. The participants either wind up in tears or swing out in a waltz.

The widely exploited "No. 21," incidentally, has decided to remain open Sunday chiefly to serve what it calls a "hang-over breakfast"—a menu calculated to startle the jaded appetite into accepting a few tid-bits. The most famous of the pick-me-up breakfasts used to be served at Murray's on West 42nd street and was said to be the creation of the actor, John Mason. It consisted first of chilled orange juice with a soupcon of brandy, then two raw eggs doctored up with Worcestershire sauce and dashes of paprika, then—of all things—marinated herring. It was a favorite of Nat Goodwin, Wilton Lackaye and DeWolf Hopper when the going had been rough.

I am told that gentlemen who have had bad nights no longer resort to the ancient formula, "a bit of the hair of the dog that bit them." Nowadays they depend mostly on bromides but sometimes "a bust in the arm," a needled drug, to carry them through the distress of a morning after. But in the Manny Chappelle days they knew that the wine agent kept open house at Rector's Sunday morning, where all the bloods of the town were welcome. Manny's recipe was a chilled bottle of champagne and heavily spiced raw oysters. In extreme cases he suggested an old-fashioned with a few drops of absinthe. And in no time at all he had everybody singing—and buying wine for all comers, which was, after all, the big idea.

One of the most amusing remarks I ever heard was from the mumbling lips of a hang-over. It was in the men's bar at the Ritz in Paris one sunny Easter morning when the whole city was on promenade. Save for myself and white aproned Frank and a figure sprawled over a table asleep, the bar was deserted. Finally the figure, who had missed the boat, cast a bleary look around and sighed: "Easter, and not an egg in the house!" And tumbled back to his nap.

Escape New Deal Make-Over.

There the those high in the New Deal councils who would make America over. But the start apparently is not to be made with the Amish. The 30 Amich children of Lancaster county, Pennsylvania, will not have to attend the $112,000 PWA school building at Smoketown. Their parents, plain folk who have not changed religious customs since their ancestors settled in Pennsylvania in 1712, took their appeal to Gov. George Earle, New Dealer, and won. The state will pay the extra $6,000 a year to keep ten one-room schools open for the Amish children.

The new centralized school has electricity and radio which the strict religious sect does not allow. Half the cost of the new school was paid out of federal relief funds. The Amish are not allowed to accept public or private charity. To attend the new relief-project school would force relief upon them, according to their interpretation.

But the Amish are not to be made over. In this day of the "gimme" attitude and chiseling it gives a refreshing stimulus to the lagging spirit of independence to hear about the Amish's stand for strict principles.—Toledo Blade.

BOARD MEETS

Galion School Officials Hear Superintendent's Report.

GALION—Much of the time was spent in discussing finances of the Galion schools at a meeting of the board of education Tuesday night.

In a report of attendance and tardiness given for the school system, the superintendent stressed the point that there is work to be done by the principals of buildings in eliminating absence, because the amount of money to be received on the foundation program is distributed on the "average daily attendance." The average percentage of attendance for the first six weeks is 97.7 per cent. There are now registered 1,641 pupils in the Galion public schools.

At a recent meeting of the athletic council of the high school the possibility of developing awards was discussed.

PLAN CAMPAIGN

GALION—Plans for the house-to-house campaign in the annual Red Cross Roll Call drive were made at the regular meeting of the Parent-Teachers' association at the North school Tuesday afternoon. THE STATE vs. ELNA JEPSON

By NANCY BARR MAVITY

(Copyright 1937)

CHAPTER V

"Oh, there's one thing I forgot," Elna whispered as they followed the deputy down the stairs "There'll be some newspaper people outside. They'll have seen your name on the jail register and are sure to notice you're the first outside visitor I've had. They've made a good deal of my being shunned by all Let me handle them. Mind you, if you're tempted, just remember whose trial this is, anyway."

The space around the outer jail door was crowded. "Give us a minute, Harry," a voice called Every member of the press made it a point to become friendly with the guard. He paused, remarking only, "Make it snappy."

The graphics with their shining reflectors were already trained on the entrance.

"Give us a break on the mystery witness, Elna!"

"We're bound to find out and use it anyhow—you know that, Elna. Be a sport!"

The babble of voices had sent Curtis shrinking behind her into the shadow

'Just a moment before you take any shots' Elna's voice was cool, firm, authoritative. "I don't think any of you care to land in the hospital for the sake of a worthless picture This man has nothing to do with my case He is neither mysterious nor a witness"

"What's come over you, sister? You always used to play ball"

Elna singled out the face "Gentlemen,' she began, "I did what I did because I know you do only what you have to do. I could squawk about the use you have made of what I thought was kindness and courtesy. I don't I was an easy mark, but you were helpless. Doubtless many of you believe what you have written. But one thing above all others has irritated me—that you should use my first name without my permission. On condition that you call me Miss Jepson hereafter, I will ask Mr. Graham if he wishes to have his picture taken and will try to get it for you."

"Well, of all the nerve!' someone began, but a hand was promptly clapped over his mouth There was a momentary huddle, punctuated by not unkindly laughter, followed by a unanimous, "O K., Miss Jepson. You win."

Elna turned her head and nodded to Curtis He stood beside her, belligerently protective.

"This, as you know, is Curtis Graham. He is an old friend of the family, especially of my father, who helped him through college. He's been out of town and knows absolutely nothing about the case—merely called on me,' Elna said

"No romance?" a voice begged.

"No romance," Elna decreed firmly. "And I warn you for your own good that if any of this is 'accidentally' twisted, he's likely to hunt out each of you and bash your individual faces in Bad habit, but true."

"Do you want me to do this?" Curtis bent to whisper in Elna's ear.

"I think so, if you don't mind too much' Her brows drew together in a tiny form "For one thing, it keeps you from being played as a mystery, and, for another, it won't hurt me any to have some respectable backing"

* * *

Elna tilted her head over her shoulder with a quick nod Both were smiling spontaneously With confused yells and a barrage of lights the flashlights came, it seemed, from all directions at once

"Know what you need Going after it now With this rapid and cryptic utterance Graham vanished down the alley leading to the street.

Elna sighed with relief She had not wanted Curtis to face the cameras grimly as though he were the forlorn leader of a lost cause with the firing squad before him

"Well done, sis—Miss Jepson That's what I call a break,' a cameraman's voice called as she walked through the crowd, accompanied by Harry

'That girl's a changed woman," one of the newspapermen said 'Most of us were ordered to give her a raw deal No good disobeying orders just to get fired or replaced on the assignment What the dickens do we care whether she bumped off this dame or not' Yes or no she just got picked as an example because of all these woman acquittals lately What say we go a little easy on her for a change and see if our offices will bear it'

'There'll be telegrams lots of telegrams' James prophesied with his provoking drawl "You see I didn't go around the block to the beer parlor for lunch I wanted a nap in the courthouse park instead I didn't get it Instead I went buy wire and wrote my first color story in this trial Maybe you'll be hearing about it' Tantalizingly the reporter for a national news service turned his back and strolled up the stairs leading to the courtroom

James' prediction as to the telegrams was fulfilled sooner than he anticipated The first was delivered to him immediately after he entered the courtroom.

"Congrats on hot yarn" it read "Leave afternoon testimony to local man Get Curtis Graham complete follow interview for overnight story Try for romance tie up McKenzie

"They've never satisfied James sighed.

It was common practice for reporters from front-row seats to slip notes across the rail to the counsel table asking first names the English for legal Latin terms and the like James slipped such a note now to Elna's attorney Inside it was addressed to Elna herself

"Do not grant favor unless you wish. Where's Graham now? Must find him quickly AAA

He saw Elna bend her head read the few words, apparently scribble idly on the pad of paper before her and pass the note to her attorney James leaped forward to receive the torn bit of yellow foolscap through the slats of the railing. He cupped it in his hand.

'Movements unpredictable' it read. "Bare possibility he may be hunting red hat Intuition, that but with a basis If you reach him, tell him I say O K to talk to you, and that I told you to remind him your story on father's funeral. E. J.'

James read the note again. What the dickens had he written about her father's funeral? Suddenly memory clicked into place, bringing back a forgotten scene Elna standing white-faced in the doorway, twirling a bright red hat in her hands—Curtis Graham in the near background offering to bash him in the jaw—his own wild boyish burst of chivalry and pity. He remembered now that he had taken an inner vow then, never to use his job for unnecessary cruelty—there was enough unavoidable cruelty in it already. But to think that she had remembered!

Pulling out his cigarets as if he were slipping into the pressroom for a smoke, James left the courtroom He encountered the local correspondent in the corridor on his way to rejoin the interminable pressroom poker game.

"Go back and hold evidence for me," James halted him "I may be late—the office wants me for something else Keep your mouth shut and don't look mysterious I'll meet you at the hotel if I'm held after adjournment time Go there and wait for me Catch 'im?"

It was difficult at the moment for the young correspondent not to look mysterious, or at least mystified. But James was already strolling down the front steps of the courthouse

The other telegrams came later. As they were sent at press rate, each was fairly long, but except for variation in profanity, their contents were similar

"What do you think you are hired for query to sleep off hangovers query not so," the mildest of them read. "All American service complete scoop on big riot quelled by Jepson noon recess stop read it and weep but don't get drunk with shame stop pipe down on razzing Jepson stop hunt romantic angle on Curtis Graham with complete interview."

Elna, who knew nothing of the telegrams, knew that Curtis' support might well have come too late That current of first impressions had been strongly set against her. What had been done could not be undone. But by restoring her faith in human loyalty he had saved more than her life He had lifted her from the horror of life which is worse than the fear of death.

The white-haired judge, whose rulings must perforce be for the most part against her, looked down upon the white serenity of her face.

"What is justice?" he wondered idly There were moments when he hated the necessities of his job. The defense attorney was making an objection to a question propounded by the prosecution

"Overruled," snapped the judge. He knew his law From sheer exhaustion and reaction Elna was half drowsing in her chair The smile that defied life to do its worst to her still lingered on her lips.

"The court will now take a recess for ten minutes. Let the bailiffs clear the courtroom and get some air into this place," barked the judge

Three days after her father's death, Elna Jepson sat before her mirror, carefully adjusting a bright red hat—a small, impertinent, provocative hat—over her burnished black hair She leaned forward with a steady hand to outline the curve of her lips with carefully applied lipstick

The movement brought her face close to the mirror She stared at her image as at the face of a stranger. It showed sensitive, definitely marked eyebrows Beneath them were dark eyes flecked here and there with a golden gleam set wide apart, sunk a little too deep for perfect beauty The sunkenness was now accentuated by the bruised shadows under them Absent-mindedly she picked up the puff from the rouge powder box for guests then laid it down No, she had always had enough sense to leave her cheeks alone ever since at sixteen she had made her first experiment with cosmetics. Her father had made no adverse criticism He had only said

'You know without make-up, your skin has always reminded me of a white gardenia. Rather unusual and effective, I've thought"

The face in the mirror remained expressionless, but Elna saw him as clearly as if he were in the room beside her—his tall, shambling figure and his riotous shock of gray hair, his sunken dark eyes like her own, thicker black eyebrows above them

The fashion of obligatory official mourning was past, but in choosing the bright red hat for her first visit to the attorney's office, Elna felt a little quiver of defiance Her father had liked gestures of defiance, made quietly, without explanation

"Never explain, never apologize," he often had quoted approvingly.

Well, she had not done that She had listened to the outraged clamor of a household of horrified relatives, heard their denunciations, said nothing Now the big old house was empty—empty but not lonely. The peace of its silence held almost a music of its own

Elna rose from her chair mechanically, glanced at her bedside clock It was time to go She must somehow face this new life of which she knew nothing. She was free now—really free to test that freedom which her father, with his almost fanatical respect for individual personality, had always thrust upon her, binding her to it nevertheless by his quiet, inescapable will But all she could feel was bewilderment.

Suddenly she wrenched off the red hat. "He can wait," she said aloud "I must think what I want first"

'Think it through," her father had said with his way of repeating proverbs or phrases of his own making, until they had become part of her own daily speech.

Quietly she moved to the bed and lay down, her fingers linked over her closed eyes There were no tears. If she were dead her father would not have cried

"Always laugh when you want to cry," he had said

Elna had one short, vague memory of her mother.

It was at a public playground. Elna, short skirts flying behind her like misplaced wings, was swinging. Her physical sensations were chiefly in the region of her stomach, but they compounded to the ecstasy that has fear as one of its ingredients

Up—whoop—higher and higher toward the treetops Swoop—downward, the ground close to her feet. Backward up, higher and higher. You could see over the trees You could see the sky, cloud-flecked blue. A little higher and you might reach the sky.

Firm hands on the ropes slowed the swing

"You're taking it a little too hard, dear." The ecstasy and the vision vanished Mother's hand held hers on the familiar homeward walk. Mother usually slowed her pace to Elna's five-year-old footsteps and held her hand loosely This time Elna had to trot to keep up, and fingers clutched at her moist little hand

At the gate to the house where Elna had been born, her mother stopped, knelt on the autumn leaves until her face was level with the child's.

"Listen, Elna," she said "Whatever happens is my fault I can't live up to your father. I'm too tired, too awfully tired of trying He is right—utterly right. It's I who am wrong. You'll be different You'll swing high That sounds like your father, doesn't it?" There was a little catching laugh

"I did swing today, didn't I?"

Elna's grave face wakened at the memory.

"Be your father's child," her mother said, as if she had not heard the interruption. "I hate making my own decisions. I don't want to be an 'independent personality' I pretended, because I love him, but I'm the wrong person. I'm one of those horrible, clinging vines who wants to be cuddled and taken care of. Your father can't like that. I wouldn't be good for you, Elna. I'd block his plans for you. Forget me as soon as possible."

"Isn't it about time for supper, Mummy?" Elna asked.

Without another word, her mother led her to the house and then went alone to the garage.

* * *

Oddly enough, Elna actually had forgotten until now, when lying on the bed, the scene came back to her with a peculiar clarity, like something seen through the wrong end of a telescope. There had followed a vague confusion. Then one day her father said:

"Your mother chose her own way out, Elna. She will not be with us again It is not my right to pry into motives. She was a free agent"

This made no sense whatever to Elna Her father had always been the one vivid personality in the house to her. She scarcely missed her mother Only years afterward she learned that her mother had closed the garage doors, turned on the ignition and let deadly carbon monoxide do its quiet work. The coroner's jury dismissed the case as accidental. Nevertheless, for years after, her father had quietly left the room whenever suicide was mentioned. She had heard other rumors, guessed and then accepted the truth, but by that time her mother had faded into an indistinguished nonentity. Buried so deep was the scene in the park, at the gate, that it came back to her now almost in the form of a dream. Life had gone on so naturally.

The next memory was far more vivid. Elna was eight years old and the proud possessor of a nondescript dog, gentle and playful, which she loved with the love only children can bestow on their pets. She had tried to make him a "one-man dog," but with ill success.

"Rippy," said her father, "is like the lady in 'The Last Duchess' He smiles on all he looks on, and his looks go everywhere."

"He does smile, doesn't he?" Elna agreed, uncomprehending. Then, with a sudden flash of understanding "He even infringes on your personality, doesn't he, Father, when he jumps up and licks your ear?"

* * *

Infringing on personality was no precocity on Elna's part. She had heard the phrase too often.

One day she took Rippy out for a walk. Rippy made the usual friendly advances to a small child, accompanied by his mother. The child, terrified, seized a stick and hit the dog across the nose. Instinctively the dog retaliated with a scratch of his claws.

Turmoil surrounded Elna, turmoil and terror. But her father had taught her: "Always admit yourself in the wrong and you put the other person in the wrong." Voices clashed about her.

"I was the dog's fault," she said, clenching her small fists It was not Rippy's fault. She had lied. She had betrayed her beloved friend.

That night at dinner she sat silent, eating nothing.

"Are you ill?" her father asked.

"No. But oh, if you could help me a little—advise me—something has happened——" The words were choked by sobs.

"Can't you handle your own dynamite, my dear?" The words were gently spoken. "You'll have to learn to, you know."

For a moment Elna felt herself lost, utterly alone and bereft. Then her small chin went up in a gesture curiously like her father's.

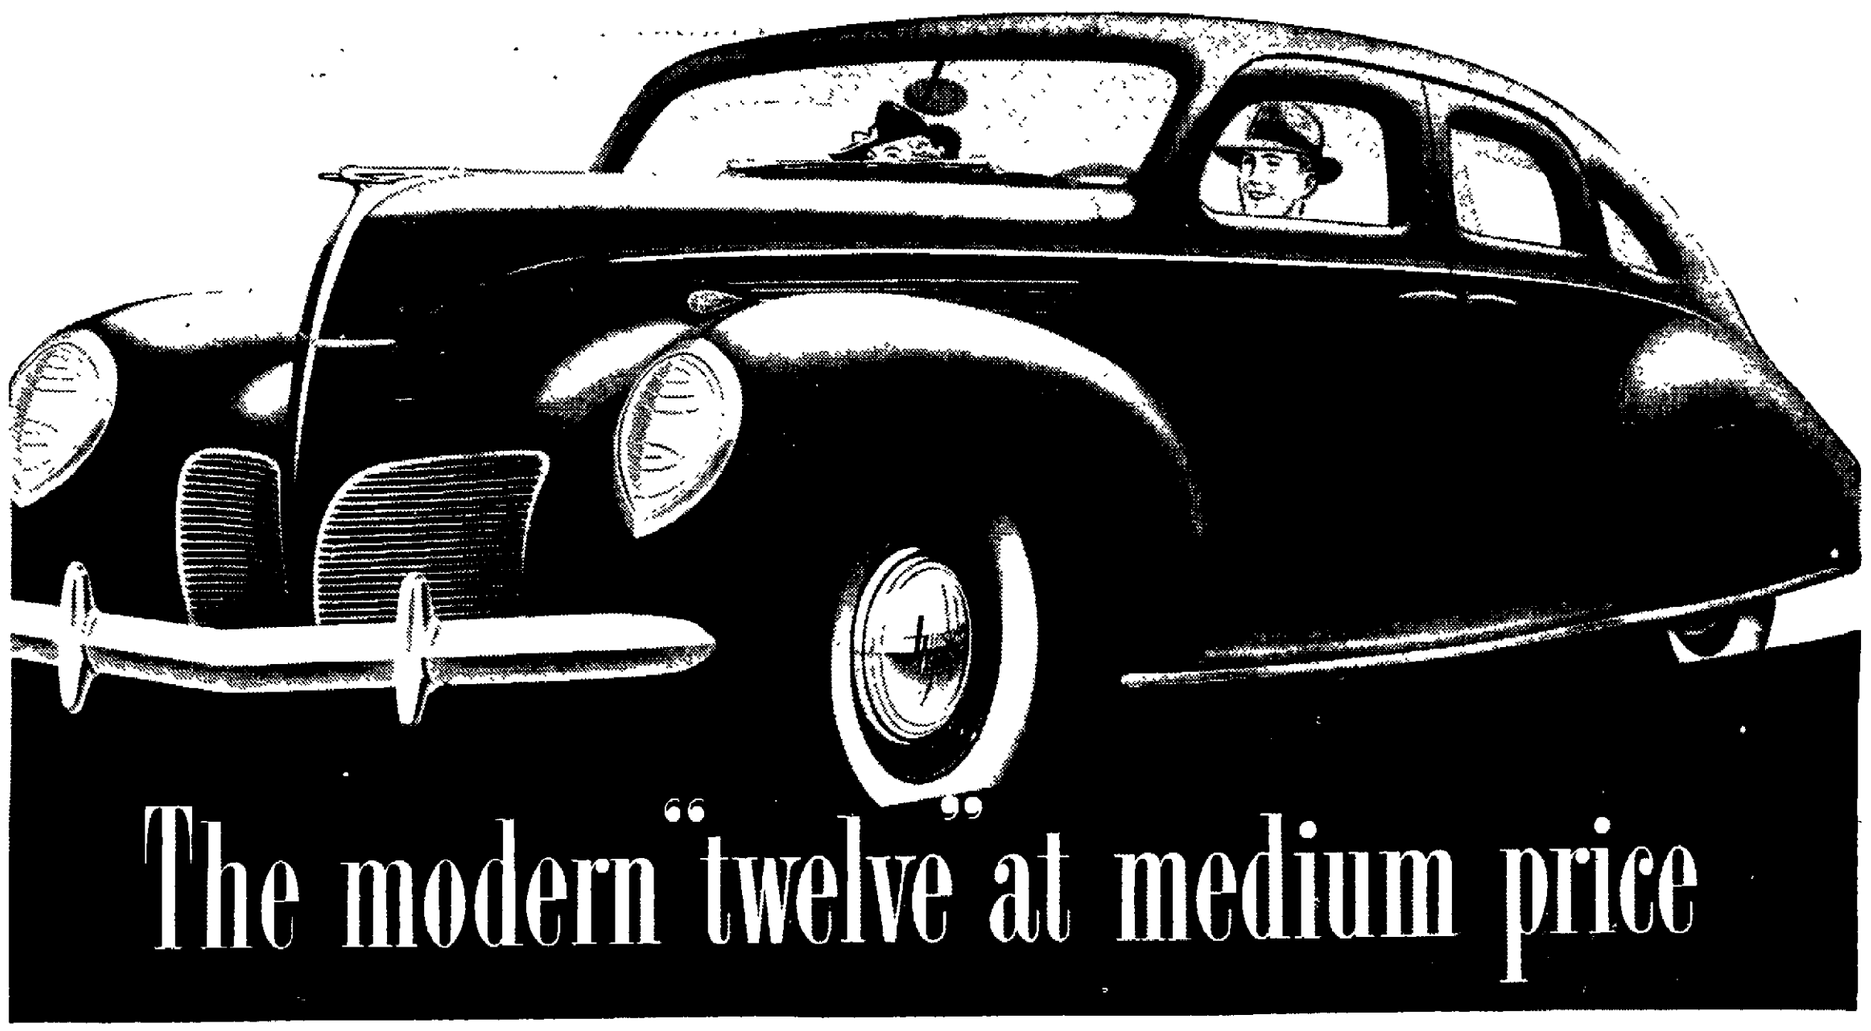
ANNOUNCING THE 1938

LINCOLN-ZEPHYR V-12



"The modern twelve at medium price"

IN THE ANNUAL fashionable parade of model after model, improvements, changes, refinements are to be observed on every hand. But how seldom the whole car departs from traditional ways.

The LINCOLN-ZEPHYR V-12 during 1936 and 1937 did — and still does. The car for 1938 does even more. Truly it can be said: It breaks with tradition again!

Graceful streamlines that gave the LINCOLN-ZEPHYR a distinction of its own in two years previous are even more pronounced this year. If the bold front of this new car reminds you of the nose of some great air-liner, it is made that way for the same basic reason. Principles of functional design, rather than mere style, dictate the car's modern form. Thus the low and horizontal radiator grille, aside from its beauty, increases cooling efficiency.

This new car breaks with the usual, too, in its modern power-plant. The V-type 12-cylinder engine, used and approved by more than 45,000 enthusiastic LINCOLN-ZEPHYR owners during 1936 and 1937, has been refined to give an even smoother performance. And new-type valve lifters, with oil cushions, bring even quieter operation. . . . Developing 110 horsepower, the engine gives 14 to 18 miles to the gallon — twelve thrifty cylinders!

The basic construction of this car is a definite break with tradition. In closed types, body and frame are not two separate units, but one unit, a steel framework, all members welded together. To this rigid framework, steel top, sides and flooring are welded. You ride surrounded by steel — and view road and landscape through wide windshield and windows of safety glass.

The new LINCOLN-ZEPHYR is bigger inside, bigger outside. The wheelbase is lengthened to 125 inches. Great comfort results from the placing of car weight and passenger weight toward the middle. Prove this on your favorite back road!

This year, a new Convertible Sedan and a new Convertible Coupe bring to six the number of LINCOLN-ZEPHYR body types from which you may choose.

This modern "twelve" is still the only car of its kind at any price! Lincoln Motor Company, builders of Lincoln and Lincoln-Zephyr V-12 motor cars.

Prices begin at $1295 delivered at Detroit factory. State and Federal taxes extra. The Sedan illustrated is $1395 delivered at Detroit factory, white side-wall tires included.
